

'A Gallant Nation... Very Close To Our Hearts' — Elizabeth

OTTAWA (CP).—Following is the official text of Princess Elizabeth's address at Wednesday night's state dinner in reply to a toast by the Governor-General:

Your Excellency, you will, I know, be very thankful that the Kink, my father, is progressing well and is gaining strength daily. The anxiety of these last two weeks has seemed endless but at all times my father himself, my mother and all our family have been wonderfully sustained and comforted by the thoughts and prayers which have come from this country and other parts of the Commonwealth—and indeed, the whole world. We have been deeply moved by the knowledge of your love and I thank you with all my heart.

I thank you, too, for your quick understanding of my wish to be nearer my father—and my mother—until I could come here with a happier heart to enjoy our visit free from anxiety.

I have always cherished a dream of coming to Canada and ever since the King and Queen came back 12 years ago with tales of its splendours, the dream has been the more compelling.

I feel I do not come among you as a complete stranger, for I have met and talked to many Canadians in England, not a few of them in the three services who had come to Europe during the war, and they have told me many things about their homeland.

I also feel I have addressed a Canadian audience before when on my 21st birthday I spoke from Capetown to all the people of the Commonwealth and Empire.

Then, I said, it was the great privilege belonging to my family's place in that world-wide Commonwealth that wherever we went there was the feeling of being not far from home.

Here in Canada, from the welcome you have given me and from the kind way you have received this toast, you have made me feel very much at home—so to speak, still in the family circle—which is a very moving experience.

Though times have made it difficult for me to come here before, I am glad that now I can pay my first visit with my husband, who like I do, feels very happy to be among you. Our children, I hope, will not have to wait so long.

(At this point, the Princess turned to French. The official translation follows.)

I am very happy to have come first to the province of Quebec, home of a loyal and industrious people to whom we owe the exploration and development of the St. Lawrence River and the lands that border it. These people have dwelt there for more than three centuries and have held faithful to their language and culture, faithful to their religion, and faithful to the Crown of Canada.

So far I have only been able to pay an all too short visit to the capital of their province, but you have promised me that I shall come back to them again and I know that I will still find living and vital the fine tradition of the ancient Canada and the new France, the audacity of Jacques Cartier, the foresight of Samuel De Champlain and the chivalry of the great Marquis De Montcalm and the valiant and generous spirit of humanity which inspired your soldiers during the war and which today inspires your public servants.

My husband and I look forward to the fascinating journey across Canada to which you have invited us, to the pleasure of meeting the peoples of the 10 provinces and to seeing this country for ourselves—this country of untold resources and of such great importance to the future of the world.

We have been keeping festival this year in Great Britain to commemorate the great exhibition of 100 years ago. At that time it seemed that the twin enemies of mankind, tyranny and war, were on the point of extinction, but they have re-appeared during this century in Europe with terrifying power.

But here in North America, a continent as large as Europe and peopled by as many different races, we know that both these grim spectres have been laid. Here the most spacious monarchy and the most powerful republic dwell side by side in easy friendship, conscious that the lamp of liberty may burn as true under either form of government.

It is because Canadians in their own homelands have won the final victory for liberty and peace that in the hour of trial you could come to help the cause of others, to succour with your young strength both your parent nations, to support the threatened liberty of Britain and to restore the violated liberty of France.

You are knights errant of our tragic modern world who were ready "to ride abroad redressing human wrongs."

In Asia at the moment Canadians are upholding the cause of freedom, and I know that wherever the weak are oppressed or justice set at naught by lawless power, Canada will always be in the forefront of the defense.

My husband and I are grateful and proud to have the opportunity of showing our admiration of this gallant nation, whose future and welfare in the Commonwealth will always be very close to our hearts.

'PERSIANS LAUGHING AT US'

Briton Feels 'Humiliated'

By KENNETH ROSS
General Manager of the Abadan Refinery.

(Oil company official tells the full-humiliating story of the evacuation from Iran) of how the British government lost touch with the situation. A story of drift and delay, and lack of action.

LONDON—I came back to London today, after 19 years working for British interests in Persia with a story of defeat and humiliation. I feel so strongly about the whole tragedy that I must speak out now and tell the facts as I know them.

When we discovered in Rome on the way that it had been suggested we had asked to be evacuated we were flabbergasted. There is no other word for it.

It is not my business to reply to Mr. Attlee or Mr. Morrison, but I feel the Persians should have been handled firmly. If force was necessary, we should have used force. But I do not think force was necessary.

Government Completely Lost Touch

I speak for myself and not on behalf of the company, but I feel that one of the difficulties of negotiations has been that British government completely lost touch with the Persian government after failure of the Stokes mission and I feel contact should have been maintained at all costs. After the Persian repudiation by the Hague Court we should have immediately appealed to the Security Council and not have waited until the staff had been served with expulsion notices. We feel that the British government waited to see what might turn up—whether Dr. Mosaddegh's government would fail or whether his illness might force him to retire. But Britain never took the initiative.

I blame the government for procrastination, for Micawber-like attitude of waiting for something to turn up. There was no determination and no action. Would military intervention have been effective early in the dispute? I feel we have always supported the United Nations in the ideal of settling disputes without force and by negotiation and I feel that once we had gone to the Hague Court we should have followed this dispute up with further action in the Security Council.

British prestige suffered blow at no time during these discussions has the British government shown any definite policy. As a result the Persians are laughing at us. British prestige has quite definitely suffered a heavy blow by the evacuation and only straightforward and firm negotiations could now restore this prestige.

The Mosaddegh government is extremely apprehensive of Mr. Churchill coming to power, as they feel he will be firmer than the present government. My advice now is that Britain should continue with the Security Council and also make every effort to negotiate with the Persian government to find some common ground on which a new settlement could be built.

British Prestige Suffered Blow

At no time during these discussions has the British government shown any definite policy. As a result the Persians are laughing at us. British prestige has quite definitely suffered a heavy blow by the evacuation and only straightforward and firm negotiations could now restore this prestige.

The Mosaddegh government is extremely apprehensive of Mr. Churchill coming to power, as they feel he will be firmer than the present government. My advice now is that Britain should continue with the Security Council and also make every effort to negotiate with the Persian government to find some common ground on which a new settlement could be built.

Here now are my answers to the questions the world is asking about Abadan:

WHAT HAS BRITAIN LOST? Twenty-five to thirty million tons of oil a year. She has lost a modern industry that embodies all the latest ideas on oil production and refining. She must expend an enormous amount of precious dollars to cover present lack of Persian oil.

COULD THE PERSIANS RUN THE INDUSTRY? Only unprofitably and impracticably. Apart from their lack of knowledge on the technical side of operations, they have not any contacts or ideas on the operation of the huge stores organization required to keep a large refinery in continuous production. Such an organization would take many years to build up and would entail buying departments in Britain and America.

WORKERS WANTED BRITISH GUARANTEE

Whether I would accept a position under them, I was told I would retain the same legal rights as I possessed in my present position and there would be no difference. Also my salary and pension rights would be guaranteed by payments into a neutral bank. But I told them that I had seen so much of the mismanagement by the Persian board, that I could not possibly think of working under any directorate which did not contain some British guarantee such as would be given by a connection with the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

WERE THERE INSTANCES WHEN OUR RESTRAINT WAS SEVERELY TRIED? Yes, we had many difficulties in operating due firstly to continual changing of Persian government officials that took place.

ELIZABETH DOLMAN

Brown-Eyed Elizabeth Waits, Thrilled To Curtsey To Her Royal Namesake

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

A brown-eyed Elizabeth will meet a blue-eyed Elizabeth when a princess comes to call at City Hall Oct. 22. And brown eyes is thrilled as only a 17-year-old can be, honored in such fashion.

Pretty Elizabeth "Betty" Dolman, Victoria's 21st Queen, will be the first citizen presented by Mayor Percy George to the Princess and Duke of Edinburgh in City Council Chamber ceremony.

As she was first selected a "queen" candidate by her schoolmates at Mount View High School, Betty will represent the youth of Greater Victoria at the presentation, according to Frank Hunter, city clerk, in charge of ceremony arrangements.

"It will be a wonderful experience but I suppose I shall be nervous," said the slim and friendly girl who came to Canada to live from London, England, two years ago.

"Everybody is teasing me that I had to come to Canada to meet the princess."

Betty, who works at the federal government's Old Age Security offices on Broughton Street has only seen the princess from afar up to now.

"I saw her with the entire royal family on the balcony of Buckingham Palace the day war ended."

Betty does not know yet what she is to wear for the occasion, but along with others who will be presented, has seen a movie of the 1939 ceremony when the King and Queen called at City Hall.

Claims Hotels Ignore Rules

VANCOUVER (CP).—John G. Haywood, supervisor of liquor enforcement for B.C. charged Wednesday night at the B.C. Hotelmen's convention that some rural operators are ignoring regulations calling for dining-room facilities and other services in connection with beer parlors.

"There are still some licensees in rural areas that consider rentals and dining rooms unnecessary and a nuisance," he said. "At the least excuse meal service be dropped."

He said his office will carry out a stiff campaign this year to enforce compliance with regulations that require a minimum number of rooms, dining rooms and improved lobbies.

Britain Stands Firm On Treaty In Egypt

Ottawa Loads Gifts On Pair

Elizabeth Receives $1,000 Cheque For Charities At Civic Luncheon

OTTAWA (CP).—The city of Ottawa paid court to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip today with a civic luncheon and sent the royal couple away laden with gifts for their children.

To the princess herself, Mayor Charlotte Whitton presented a cheque for $1,000 in Canadian funds, contained in a hand-worked leather wallet, to be used by the princess for the charities she personally favors.

The luncheon, starting at 12:30 p.m. EST, was held in the ballroom of the Chateau Laurier Hotel. The guest list of 200 included high-ranking civic officials.

The royal couple, going to the luncheon after a quiet morning at Government House, were accompanied by Prime Minister and Mrs. St. Laurent.

The Princess's costume for the luncheon was a red crepe dress with a soft draped bodice and full skirt with small waistline. She also wore a long red wool coat trimmed at the collar and sleeves with black velvet buttons.

For the royal children, Mayor Whitton presented a truly Canadian treat—maple sugar in a box fashioned of Ottawa Valley bird's-eye maple and bearing the city's coat-of-arms. The children, the mayor suggested, will expect something to be brought home "from the party."

Eleven-year-old Eric Goodwin, son of former Mayor Grenville Goodwin who died suddenly, a month ago, presented for three-year-old Prince Charles a wind-breaker with the first new crest award of the city.

For one-year-old Princess Anne, there were two bunny blankets spun from the finest Canadian wool with the Royal infant's Royal coronet. They were presented by Nicole Tardif, 11, daughter of city controller Paul Tardif.

Today there were lavish arrangements for security as 40 to 50 power boats—50 to 75 foot, luxurious motor cruisers—got their instructions of just where they should cruise in relation to the royal barge.

So Princess Elizabeth acts sometimes as though she were mentally pinching herself to make sure she isn't dreaming. She forgets to smile. Occasionally she looks hesitant, sometimes even a bit scared, sometimes just shy. She turns to her husband and he grins and she is all right again.

It's not that she's stuffy. She's anything but stuffy. It's just that she's a young woman studying in a strenuous school for one of the greatest jobs in the world.

Hockey Scandal Bared At Kingston; Manager, Coach Are Barred For Life

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP).—The Ontario Hockey Association Wednesday night suspended the manager and the coach of a Kingston hockey club for life on charges that the team threw a playoff series to Peterborough last spring. It suspended two players for two years and 12 for one year.

The suspensions, imposed by the association's sub-committee after a hearing, are:

Life: Manager D. L. McKnight, manager of the Kingston Nylons Hockey Club; Coach George Patterson.

Two years: Players Rawlin Aitken and Edward Plumb.

One year: Jack Stone, Ken Murphy, Walter Gerow, Ken Partis, Jack McKeown, Freddy Harrison, Joe Watts, Glynn Udall, Robert Joyce, Kenny Potts, Douglas Patterson and Jack Armstrong.

Only two players, Joey Catlin and Bob Landry, who did not attend the hearing when arrangements to throw the series were made, were exonerated by the sub-committee.

In a statement, the sub-committee said it reached a unanimous decision that it had been proven that the Kingston team threw a four-game series to Peterborough, so the Nylons would advance in O.H.A. Senior B competition. The winning club went on to the senior, A Allan Cup playoffs.

The charges were laid by player Douglas Patterson and Coach Patterson.

Additional penalties were imposed on players Aitken and Plumb because they repudiated statements to a sub-committee meeting in Kingston Sept. 25. At that time they confirmed the charge.

The committee agreed that the Peterborough club had no knowledge of the action.

Iraq Becomes Third State In Mid-East To Make Bid

From AP and Reuters Dispatches

As a new threat to her prestige in the Middle East arose today Britain declared firmly she would quit neither the Sudan nor the Suez Canal—the two main points sought by Egypt in the current treaty dispute.

Meanwhile at Baghdad it was officially announced Iraq has approached the British government for a revision of existing treaty relationships.

Iraq thus became the third Middle East state to become embroiled in a dispute with Britain.

In London official statements by the Foreign Office said: 1. Britain will take all steps necessary to maintain her troops in the canal zone.

2. Britain will agree to no change in the status of the Sudan without consulting the Sudanese, maintaining the people's right to decide their own future.

Both these points are covered by the 1936 treaty which Egypt is moving to tear up.

The Foreign Office statement said the government will continue to give full support to the present administration of the Sudan, headed by Governor-General Sir Robert Howe, and to its policy of bringing independence to the territory.

In Cairo shouting Egyptians, demanding the ouster of British troops from Egypt, today demonstrated against Britain for the second successive day. But this time there was no violence.

Heavy police escorts kept order as thousands paraded through Mustafa Kamel Square, then moved on to the larger Ibrahim Pasha Square to hear speakers shout:

"Down with Britain. We want the British to get out of our country."

Leading the crowd, Sudanese students at two Cairo universities cried "Down with foreign domination—we want one king, one crown, one Nile."

After streaming past the palace and cheering King Farouk, the crowds dispersed without incident.

Cairo newspapers said the government is studying the possibility of negotiating non-aggression pacts with Russia, the U.S. and France.

The newspaper Al Misri said a royal decree is expected soon to oust the British Governor-General of the Sudan. Under the 1899 agreement the Egyptians name the Governor-General, but Britain must assent to the Egyptian choice. The Governor-General's job has been held by a Briton since 1899.

An estimated 40,000 Egyptian workers hired by the British army at its Suez Canal bases hailed Nahas Pasha's stand, dispatches to Cairo newspapers said.

The government has also hinted it may cut off supplies of water and fresh vegetables as measures to force the Britons out.

In Washington meanwhile, U.S. State Secretary Acheson made it plain he agrees with Britain's contention that Egypt cannot legally cancel the existing treaties.

The Anglo-Iraqi pact, subject of overtures by the Iraq Government was signed in 1930 to run until 1955. It granted Britain sites for two air bases and the right to maintain forces in their neighborhood. Iraq undertook to concert defense measures with Britain.

Gigantic Helicopter Landing By Marines

Compiled from AP and U.P. Dispatches.

8TH ARMY HEADQUARTERS. KOREA—Helicopters flew an entire battalion of U.S. marines into battle on the eastern front today and a powerful tank force simultaneously struck deep into Red positions to the west.

The helicopter airlift—the largest in military history—was completed in six hours and 15 minutes within mortar range of Communist defenses. However, the Reds made no attempt to interfere.

The 160-flight "Operation Bumblebee" was designed to reinforce the marine lines in the eastern mountains for a renewed attempt to break north Korean resistance on the approaches to the east coast port of Wonsan.

The marines first used Helicopters to move men to the front three weeks ago, but only about 260 men were shuttled north on that occasion.

Part of the tank-infantry task force cut west up the Naedang Valley to support other second division troops on "Kim Il Sung Ridge." The Yanks on this ridge were more successful, taking a key hill from fresh Chinese troops.

Another armored spearhead rolled up the Satae Valley east of "Heartbreak Ridge" and blasted enemy bunkers from that side.

TIMES STORY TELLS OF PAST FILM PROJECT

At least one of the moving pictures made in Victoria 15 years ago, when for a time there were high hopes in the city that Central Films would establish a flourishing industry here, is still going strong.

Showing recently in Birmingham was the film "Tugboat Princess," one of the class B pictures specially made for the British market.

Most successful of those produced, it is still drawing good houses.

Story of Victoria's brief flutter in the film business is told in the Sunday Times Magazine by N. de Bérard Lurgie in her Memory series of articles.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

MILK AND PRICES

FOR SOME MONTHS past, there has been an almost curdling conflict of opinion over the milk business, with a growing tension between the triangle most concerned—the producers, the distributors and the consumers. And the solution will call for the wisdom and judgment of a Solomon to decide.

As I don't pretend to possess anything approaching that rare quality, I am not going to suggest a solution. Certainly I don't think subsidies are the answer, for they have to come out of the pockets of the public. In other words, instead of having to pay the extra price on each bottle of milk the people would have to pay extra taxes, in some form or another, to provide for the subsidies.

PRODUCERS' PLIGHT

MY SYMPATHIES are somewhat divided. For I have every sympathy with the farmer who is, with his family, expected to work for wages and for hours which no union worker would tolerate for one moment, as cows don't produce with any respect for eight-hour days or 40-hour weeks, and when their product is ready to leave the animal assembly line it just has to be taken away, whether it be on week-days, Sundays, holidays or bonfire nights.

And at the same time the farmer, working from sunup to sundown, seven days a week, has to sell his produce in a market in which he has to buy all the commodities he requires at prices largely dictated by the high wages entailed in their unionized production.

CONSUMERS' CASE

ON THE other hand I have sympathy, too, with the consumer who, trying to eke out an existence on a pension or low income, has come to rely on milk as a main source of nutrition in these days of prohibitive meat prices. In my opinion, their plight is even worse than that of the family with small children for whom, after all, extra provision has been made in the shape of family allowances—which were primarily intended to be devoted to the purchase of milk, extra clothing, etc., for the children.

What it boils down to is that, if the farming industry were to adopt hours of work and rates of pay comparable to those of industrial labor, the public would have to pay very much more, not only for their milk but for all the primary products. And at the time of writing this, it looks as if the farmers are going to take one leaf, at any rate, out of the unionists' book—that is, to use the "strike" weapon as a means of attaining their end.

EVERYWHERE THE SAME

NOR IS it only in British Columbia that farmers have got so fed up with what they consider this inequality of return for their labor that they are threatening to strike. A similar situation has arisen in the Isle of Man, that happy-go-lucky island, halfway between the coasts of England and Ireland, where there is practically no income tax.

Despite that enviable immunity, the Manx Farmers' Union not long ago appointed nine of its members as a strike committee, with power to stop all supplies of fresh meat, milk and vegetables in the island, as the result of a dispute with the government on prices.

GOVERNMENT'S 'PIGON'

WHEN ASKED how the people would fare for food if the farmers held back supplies from the market, the spokesman of the farmers replied:

"That will be the government's pigeon. We are sorry to do this, but we had to take drastic steps. We have asked the government to meet us on the question of milk prices. We have asked for arbitration, but they wouldn't even give us a hearing. Then the government fixed the price of milk at 2s. 6d. a gallon—below the price in the rest of Britain. Unless our case is met we shall strike."

I haven't seen any notice of their strike threat being carried out or if a compromise was effected. But, because farmers are at heart more conscious of their responsibility to the wellbeing of the community than almost any other class of citizen, they probably stopped short of striking—as I hope our island producers will.

Think Military May Seek Custody Of Atomic Bombs From Commission

WASHINGTON (AP)—The military may be trying to persuade the administration to give the armed forces custody of atomic bombs now being mass-produced by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The belief grew today in the light of an extraordinary meeting Wednesday night.

In that session, Defense Secretary Robert Lovett talked at length with Chairman Gordon Dean of the A.E.C., two members of the commission, including Dr. Henry D. Smyth, the nuclear physicist who wrote the detailed report on the first nuclear bomb, and the commission's general manager, Marion W. Boyer.

The full-day meeting was obviously more than routine. The participants refused to say what was discussed.

While there was speculation that custody of the bomb—denied to the forces three years ago—might have been a major item in the talks, it appeared probable that other matters also were considered. Particularly, there was the recent series of statements by A.E.C. and Congressional leaders about the new atomic weapon capability of the United States, statements which caused concern over what officials regard as too-enthusiastic public interpretation of such talk.

The defense department's atomic conference came at about the time a book was published which reported that the late James Forrestal, first Secretary of Defense, had recommended to President Truman in 1948 that

Wider Debate Being Urged On Premier

Pressure is building up for action at the special session of the Legislature on other issues besides old age pensions.

There is a strong suggestion that certain private members may demand consideration of such problems as price control and hospital insurance, and a clear statement of policy from the Government on these points.

Meanwhile, from Saanich C.C.F. District Council, comes a letter to Premier Byron Johnson:

"At the special session of the House being called Oct. 25, we understand that consideration will be given only one problem, that of deciding B.C.'s position with regard to the amended Old Age Pension Act.

"Considering the expenses of a special session and the many matters of urgent concern to the people of B.C. would it not be possible to include also in the agenda legislative consideration of such vital issues as the B.C.H.I.S. inquiry, the Butte Lake problem and that of rising milk prices?"

"British Columbians are demanding answers to these questions now, not three or four months from now and since they pay the wages of their elected representatives they have the right to ask for reasonable consideration of their wishes."

In view of these facts, the letter adds, "we urgently request you to widen the field of discussion at the impending session."

Iran May Help Russia Turn Tables on U.N.

Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala (later short-time premier), above, carried Iran's protest to the Security Council in 1946 over Russia's failure to withdraw her troops as promised. Prodded by the U.N. the Red army went home reluctantly and the Red puppet government of Azerbaijan in northern Iran collapsed.

More About BRITON HUMILIATED

Instructions from one official might immediately be vetoed by another. The frustration which this entailed was often such that the British staff had to hold on to their tempers very hard and give the other cheek. I can only speak in highest praise of my staff for the way in which they stood up to the strain.

DO YOU EXPECT PERSIANS TO RUIN WHOLE REFINERY NOW THROUGH IGNORANCE AND INEFFICIENCY? No, I sincerely believe they will not attempt to run any but the simplest plants in the refinery. By doing this they will be able to maintain supplies for their country but will not be able to produce the better quality products needed for export.

I believe they will be able to export crude oil which does not require any plant except tankage, if they can get tankers. This is extremely doubtful and presumably would be stopped by the British government under present economic restrictions.

Staff Felt Britain 'Scuttled'

IN THE END DID WE HAVE TO SCUTTLE FROM ABADAN? Yes, it was a scuttle because the Government procrastinated until the British staff were served with expulsion notices.

It was in these circumstances that Mr. Mason, the company's chief representative in South Iran and myself had decided that the time had now come when, if we did not get out, we would be thrown out by force. The British Government decided to evacuate the staff by the British cruiser Mauritius, which made the evacuation much more uncomfortable. This was totally unnecessary as members of the Persian Temporary Board of Directors had promised me they would allow planes to land in Abadan. I feel that this decision to use the Mauritius was taken in order to give the British public an idea that this was an enforced evacuation and that the British Navy was coming to our aid.

WILL THE BRITISH EVER GO BACK TO PERSIA? Persians freely admit they cannot run the refinery at Abadan, which is the largest in the world, themselves and therefore must have foreign help to do it. The only people who can supply these qualities to Persia are the British who have developed the refinery. Hence I feel that it is imperative for Persia that she should get British technical and administrative help.

I feel if an agreement could be reached that we should help in the purely technical side of operating of Abadan and in which management would be guaranteed by the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company or the British Government that it would be possible for a British staff to serve there in a nationalized industry. I would go back in these circumstances.

WILL THE RUSSIANS COME IN AND HELP THE PERSIANS? The Persians do not wish to have the Russians in their country, but if we do not act quickly with a definite policy, they might be forced into inviting them to come in.

COULD FOREIGN TECHNICIANS OPERATE THE REFINERY? There are few, if any, foreign technicians other than Americans with the experience to operate the largest refinery in the world. I am quite sure the Americans would not come.

Burglar's Brother May Get New Trial

William Russell, brother of the self-confessed "cat burglar," may have to face another trial on seven counts of retaining stolen goods, as the result of a split verdict returned by an Assize Court jury Wednesday.

The jury found Russell not guilty on two retaining counts but failed to reach an agreement on seven other charges. The verdict was returned after jury-men had deliberated for nearly six hours.

Russell automatically faces a new trial on the seven other charges as the result of the split verdict. The Crown, however, can order a stay of proceedings and withdrawal of the remaining charges against the accused.

The Crown contended at the trial that Russell received the stolen goods from his brother, Philip, who is now serving seven years in the penitentiary after pleading guilty to a long list of thefts in Victoria, Esquimalt and Saanich.

Russell denied any knowledge that the goods found in his home were stolen by his brother.

Burden Golf Trophy Winner

K. Burden carded a net 65 at the Uplands Golf Club Monday to win the Thomson Memorial Trophy. Competing against 96 other golfers, Burden finished up one point better than A. E. Irish, who shot a net 66.

Bill McColl shot the low gross, 72, while Bob Fleming was second with a 75.

JUDGE FOUND DUTY COSTLY

KANSAS CITY (AP)—It cost Alex D. Peebles $20 Wednesday to serve as municipal judge.

On the list of traffic violators was Mrs. Alex D. Peebles, his wife, accused of speeding. She pleaded guilty.

"A $12 fine," said Peebles—and dug into his own pocketbook. He handed a $20 bill to the court clerk.

When the clerk handed back $8, Mrs. Peebles put it in her purse. That, she explained, was "a bonus for never having been arrested before."

Morgenthau's plan, as outlined to the United Press, calls for purchase of at least 51 per cent of the Anglo-Iranian stock to assure control by the United Nations.

These proposals came while Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossaddegh awaited an appearance before the United Nations Security Council here and after Great Britain had notified Egypt that it would not recognize a unilateral denunciation of their 1936 treaty of alliance and their agreement for joint control of the Sudan.

Morgenthau insisted that his plan with respect to Iranian oil would offer these advantages:

(1) "It would keep Iran from falling into the hands of the Russians.

(2) "Would demonstrate to the nations of the world that the United Nations could meet any situation arising in the world economic field.

(3) "Would bring an end to the rapid depletion of U.S. oil reserves, which depletion is resulting from U.S. exports of oil now being shipped abroad to make up for the loss of Iranian oil.

(4) "And would save U.S. taxpayers millions of dollars which otherwise would be poured into Iran through grants and aids of one kind or another to keep Iran independent.

(5) "The program would provide an out for England and an out for Iran.

(6) "Profits from the venture would go a long way toward financing the United Nations."

Verdict Of Guilty

THE LAW TOOK NEARLY FOUR years to catch up with the Western Canadian bread combine but all the enormous trouble and expense involved in this case was well justified.

It is true that violators of the Combines Act—the three major groups being McGavin Ltd., Canadian Bakeries Ltd., and Weston Bread and Cake Ltd.—were fined only $10,000 apiece, a small sum for such corporations, but the maximum allowed by law. Even the large legal fees which these companies must pay are not the significant result of the recent trial. The important thing is that the government of Canada has shown its determination to enforce the law.

Every business concern in the country knows that now. Those who propose to hold up prices by illegal agreement to throttle competition and to undermine their own system of free enterprise face not only rigorous prosecution and heavy costs but the still heavier penalty of publicity and public anger.

In the bread case the operations of the combine were so flagrant that they must have been undertaken by men who expected the government to turn a blind eye to the violation of the law. The combine arranged to fix wholesale and retail prices, to divide sales territory, to prevent competition in tenders for business and to coerce small bakers which threatened to offer real competition.

One bakery was threatened by the combine in a letter written on the stationery of the government of Alberta and signed "for the Department of Trade and Industry." No wonder the presiding judge at the recent trial, Mr. Justice Boyd McBride, denounced this "fraudulent system... a system of misrepresentation and fraud, a system of plunder comparable to meeting a man on the street and forcibly robbing him of his money."

For all this, of course, the public has paid in bread prices. It is impossible to reckon these costs but their dimensions may be guessed by the fact that, according to defense evidence in the trial, an increase of 1 cent per loaf in the price of bread during 1946-47 represented $9,000,000 in the territory of the combine, which operated for 17 years.

After the complicated dispute within the government service over the proposed prosecution of flour milling companies, and the government's refusal to prosecute, for good or bad reasons, it was widely thought that the government was getting soft on combines. It is clear now that the present minister of justice, Mr. Stuart Garson, has no such intention. Under him the officers of the Combines administration are proceeding vigorously not only in the bread industry but in the flat glass and match industries and the government shows no inclination to blunt the teeth of the law by amendment, as widely urged.

All businessmen who believe in private enterprise should be the first to support these efforts to enforce competition, for it is by competition that their system lives, and that system has produced in America the most successful economy ever known.

Throughout most of North American industry competition remains vigorous and unrestrained. It is only in a few fields now and then that business forgets the first law of business, and plays straight into the hands of those who would destroy it in favor of some system of complete state control.

Competition, which used to be regarded by the socialist as the source of all evil, is now recognized, even in Britain under a socialist government, as the only sure method of maintaining maximum production and wealth. The British socialist government, having abandoned most of its old illusions, is insisting on competition in industry, is accepting, in fact, the basic theory of the so-called capitalist system.

That system polices itself for the most part through the operations of the free market but the state must be ready, as the Canadian state evidently is ready, to step in and punish those who violate laws designed to protect free enterprise for the benefit of enterprisers and the public alike.

Tribute To Graciousness

PRINCESS ELIZABETH AND PRINCE

Philip have captured the hearts of French Canada as they are capturing the hearts of other Canadians on their westward tour. The charm and graciousness of Elizabeth's parents on their triumphant visit in 1939 is being reflected once more in the young woman who will some day become Queen of Canada—a charm and graciousness complemented by the cheerful informality of her consort.

The affection shared by French Canada and by the English-speaking population symbolizes the growth in strength and unity of two great peoples who have been welded into a whole by the system of government Canada has developed. It was entirely fitting that the "official" start of the tour should find the princess speaking to the people of Quebec in French, as her father did before her, and that the response to that courtesy should be so genuine.

The warmth of Canada's welcome runs the deeper because of the swelling sense of nationhood the Royal visit helps to emphasize.

The Church In Politics

THE ROMAN CATHOLICS OF BRITISH Columbia, we imagine, are too intelligent and understand the democratic process too well to form a political party based on religion. This proposal was advanced at a convention of the B.C. Roman Catholic Education Association, but it will hardly appeal to the Catholics at large. For if anything is calculated to damage the democratic process and, in the end, to damage the Catholic Church, it is the introduction of organized religion into organized politics.

One of the major achievements of the democratic system in English-speaking countries has been the elimination of religious disputes from partisanship in Parliament. This was accomplished only with the patient struggle of nearly two centuries after wars of religion had devastated Europe and divided the society of Britain.

As a result, all religions are free to pursue their worship as they please, without interference by the state.

As soon as any church goes into politics it can expect and will receive retaliation from other churches, which will similarly organize. A Catholic political party in Canada, or a party representing any other church, will immediately produce a party opposed to that church. A Catholic party, would be opposed by an anti-Catholic party—the very nightmare of religious struggle which our system has sought successfully to prevent since Canada's beginnings.

The immediate victims of any such division on religious lines would be the minority, in the case of British Columbia, the Catholics. No church will be safe, no faith will long be free of interference by the state, if religious doctrines become the stuff of politics.

A Break For The Consumer

in Parliament this week contained only one piece of news, and an important one. The government proposes to end by legislation the present system of so-called price maintenance in Canadian business. It will ask Parliament to prevent manufacturers fixing the retail price of their products.

This policy in Canada is part of a general attack on a system which has long damaged the interests of the consumer. In the United States the Supreme Court this year invalidated state laws which allowed a manufacturer to say that retailers must not sell his product below a certain price. In Britain the Labor government has promised to outlaw such price fixing entirely. The Canadian government apparently intends to follow the same course.

Both in Britain and in Canada royal commissions have studied the results of price maintenance and found them bad.

It denies, of course, the very principle of competition by which the free enterprise system lives. It prevents local stores from selling at the lowest possible price a wide range of products. It forbids them to hand on to the consumer any economies they can make in their operations. It disregards the varying costs of distribution in different parts of the country and in different parts of the same city.

As the royal commissions find, it is a form of rigidity in the national economy benefiting a few manufacturers and injuring the community at large. The government is wise to end this evil, especially at a time of high prices, when maximum competition is required more than ever before.

The Press And The Royal Tour

NEWSPAPERMEN, WHO WERE PAID extravagant compliments during last week's National Newspaper celebration, were rudely brought to earth by directives issued for Tuesday night's state dinner in Ottawa.

According to The Canadian Press, three tickets were issued for the thousands of journalists covering the Royal tour. They were requested to wear formal clothes, to sit in an ante-room, and to "provide their own dinners" before they arrived.

The press held a meeting and rejected the offer of three tickets "with a stiff note." We think they did the right thing. The original wish expressed by Her Royal Highness was that she make contact with as many Canadians as possible.

For those unable to get to key centres to see the Royal couple, the press remains the eyes and ears of the common people.

It is hard to believe that the Governor-General, a great and good friend of the press, would tolerate any directive which would put newspapermen in the servant class, humbly awaiting any journalistic crumbs which might drop from the tables of the mighty.

If the princess was sincere in her expressed desire; if the purpose of this trip is to bring a future queen nearer to her subjects; then the Fourth Estate, in this instance, at least, becomes of first importance. Committee members at all levels may be assured that the journalists will not eat peas with their knives.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

A FEW YEARS AGO I bought a couple of very small shares in the very big Bell Telephone Company. This, of course, was before telephone companies began to get fidgety about how little money they were making. But I think I'd have bought them anyway, partly because my cousin used to be Mr. Bell's secretary, and partly because Mr. Bell invented the telephone in Brantford, where my Uncle Stanley was invented by my grandparents.

Well, you'd think that since I own a tiny bit of Bell, I'd be as loyal as anything to that outfit. But I'm not. Tell me for why. Every time I read a Bell advertisement about how I should behave on the telephone I get angry. I don't want anyone to teach me manners. And least of all some public relations expert.

HERE, for example, is a list of 20 questions "to help me check my telephone manners." If I answer 16 with a "yes," then I am better than average. Better for whose purpose and by what standards? This is nonsense.

1. Do I answer the phone before the third ring? It all depends on whom I fear is calling. And how far he has dragged me in from the garden.
2. Do I identify myself when I answer? Not when it is imprudent to do so... whom do you take me for? Or identify me as?
3. Do I talk without a pipe, cigarette or pipe in my mouth? Sometimes, but not half so well.
4. Do I speak in a natural tone? All tones are natural to me, though seldom more than two or three at any one time.
5. Do I make an effort to sound friendly? It depends on who wants to get what out of whom.

SIX. Do I ask necessary questions in a nice way? I try not to ask any questions, always remembering what Dr. Johnson said about questions not being the mode of conversation among gentlemen. In any event, it is the UNNECESSARY ones that need to be asked nicely.
7. Do I avoid transferring calls? Don't know what this means.
8. When I want to recall the operator, do I move the hook slowly up and down so that she gets the signal clearly? Judging from the results, I say one of us was wrong. I can't tell which.

9. Do I courteously ask the other party to hold the line while I leave the instrument in order to get information for him? No need to feign courtesy here when I ENJOY making him hold the line. It's a pleasure to ask him.
10. Do I thank him for waiting when I return? Not exactly. I'm sorry to find he's still there, sometimes, though I'm glad he's had a long wait.

ELEVEN. Do I offer to call him back later when it would need some time to dig up his information? No. For one thing, I don't have that kind of information. If it's lost in the slightest, it's a complete coner, the way my study is arranged. Anyhow, I usually pretend I am old Brock's secretary, and I say old Brock will (or may) call back, not me.
12. Do I arrange to have someone else answer the phone when I am away from my desk? Yes... my seven-year-old daughters. They can muffle a message and enrage a caller even better than I can. They giggle at him, too.

13. When I answer another man's phone, do I give his name, as "Mr. Brown's telephone, Mr. Smith speaking"? No. It doesn't matter here what my own name is. And I never call myself Mister, as if I had received that name at baptism.
FOURTEEN. Do I courteously ask the party to hold the line, and do I avoid shouting "Hey, Joe!" when calling others to the phone? I am not allowed to shout at anyone in my house. As for asking a man to hold the line when he knows darn well he's going to hold it... well, many idiots call here, but they're not that simple.

15. Do I express regret when the person called is out? Yes. It means one more tinkle later on.
16. Do I offer to take the message? Not any more. The caller thinks I'm snooping and gets rude about it. Also, the message is bound to annoy my wife or children, who will somehow blame it on me.

SEVENTEEN. Do I thank the party for calling? What for, earth for?
18. Do I say goodbye or other farewell definitely close the conversation? Whenever I can, I have always envied our old cook Wong Wai, who ended every conversation (even when otherwise in Chinese) with "Go to hell."

19. Do I wait for the calling party to hang up first? In vain.
20. Do I always replace the receiver gently and avoid giving the other party a bang in the ear? Well, how can I bang him, much though I enjoy that... if I have let him hang up first? And anyhow, surely the bang is the fault of the telephone technicians, who are quite content with the roughest of instruments?

AND NOW, having answered all these questions courteously, I'd like to ask a few myself, pointed right bang in the ear of all telephone companies:
1. Do you realize that my manners were far better before I got old enough to receive phone calls?
2. Are you aware that deliberate rudeness is sometimes the only form of self-protection left to us? Especially in dealing with the thoughtless who were rude enough to phone?
3. Do you know that the post office offers a cheap and excellent service?

The Financial Post

In fiscal 1950, there were 44 attempts on the life of President Truman. In fiscal 1951 there were 85 and 3,629 persons were questioned about letters and telephone calls they made to the White House.
What's the score for Prime Minister St. Laurent and Governor-General Alexander?
The deputy commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police told the Financial Post there have been no attempts on the life of either man in the past two years, "unless it's something we don't know about—no threatening letters, phone calls, no suspicious characters—nothing of the kind."

Trying To Wake Up Rip Van Winkle

As Our Readers See It

NOT BRITISH?

I was rather amused at the colonial-type of letter re Canadian flag, which appeared recently in your column. There are still some people who regard Canada as a colony in the matter of keeping it British and asserting that the Union Jack was good enough for my ancestors. It is therefore good enough for me.

Many Canadian veterans of both world wars have been ashamed of Canada having no distinctive flag of her own, when Australia, New Zealand and South Africa have their own national colors.

This, I know, accounts for the apathy on the part of my fellow citizens in not displaying flags on our national or civic holidays. Well might Quebec lead the way and produce a flag which will give us a true Canadian nationalism. It is long overdue and we have no legal right to usurp the national flag of the British Isles, when other members of the Commonwealth have their own national emblems.

Keep Canada Canadian, not British and never let us dispense with the finest of national anthems, O Canada.

RATEPAYERS

Thank you for printing a report on the delegation which attended Saanich Council meeting Oct. 2.

Like many others I have perhaps been too busy to pay as much attention to civic affairs as they merit, but during the evening a number of points arose which I feel sure would be of general interest to your readers.

It appears that Saanich municipality have decided on a road policy similar to that of Oak Bay. That is to say, it is their intention that, in the shortest possible time as many residents as possible will be induced to improve their roads by local improvement schemes.

This idea is, of course, excellent, except for the fact that many parts of Saanich are still not developed sufficiently to make it truly economic.

This question, and indeed many questions relative to a growing area, is of course highly complex, and, seeking advice from a ratepayers' association, I was surprised to find that since Ward Six seceded, the main part of Saanich is without this type of organization.

Perhaps you would care to publish this letter so that those who are interested in forming a ratepayers' association may let me know by postcard or letter.

If there is sufficient support a meeting could be arranged by advertisement in your columns.

FLUID MILK

Before fixing the price of fluid milk one should remember the following:
Milk is alive, it was intended to be consumed at its source. The structure of human and animal milk is vastly different, thus the effect on another than its producing kind will be detrimental. Is this the reason that the present generation do not think for themselves?

How to Torture Your Wife : : : BY H. T. WEBSTER

C.C.F. And The Split Vote

How any surprise can be expressed at the result of the Esquimalt by-election is beyond conception of anyone who has given any thought to British Columbia politics.

In order to show that I am not simply being wise after the event, I quote from a contribution made by me to your newspaper in 1949, as follows:

"As you so adequately point out, the return of the Coalition can only be ascribed to the joint efforts and co-operation of Liberals and Conservatives in British Columbia. Had it been otherwise, an examination of the returns of the B.C. constituencies shows that the C.C.F. might have obtained 30 seats. In only a few ridings would it have been possible for the Liberals or Conservatives fighting individually, to have won the day."

In my article I proceeded to examine the results in the 48 ridings and pointed out 25 ridings which were won by Coalition candidates who would not have been elected if the Liberal and Conservative vote had been divided. The results in these ridings plus the eight ridings in which C.C.F. candidates were returned would on a very conservative estimate have given the C.C.F. the number of seats mentioned.

The result in Esquimalt was by no means an extraordinary victory to the C.C.F. in that the successful candidate polled only 2,816 votes as compared to 2,488 cast for the C.C.F. candidate in 1949. The answer is that in 1949, there was no serious split in the coalition vote, the late Commander Beard being elected with a total of 4,219 votes. With the split that existed it was almost a mathematical certainty that the C.C.F. candidate would win.

If those forces which are supposed to represent free enterprise are to be divided in future elections as they were in Esquimalt, then British Columbia must face the future with the moral certainty that through a minority vote it will have a Socialist government. This will be so despite the "Brave Whistling" of the "Go It Alone Boys" in both the Liberal and Conservative parties, who will find themselves in a divided opposition in the next legislature.

NAIVE DEVICE

The remedy will not lie in that naive device commonly known as the single transferable vote. It is somewhat amusing to note that C.C.F. speakers go to great pains to protest a measure which they know will be for the benefit of their own minority party.

If anything is needed to insure their success, if the present division is continued it will be that miserably deceptive device which will permit the Socialists to "plump" and which will not ensure that the majority of the non-socialist voters will do otherwise for their candidates or that they will not throw their alternative votes either to C.C.F. candidates or to Independents.

If a fourth party is organized and places candidates in any number of ridings that will even more seriously divide the non-Socialist voters and make it "just ducky" for the C.C.F.

I write, of course, as a supporter of the principle behind the Coalition and as a present supporter of the general policies of the Government so long as it can be maintained but the original Hart-Maitland formula is too rigid to be continued.

The Coalition can only be maintained if that formula can be revised in such a manner as to ensure the people who call themselves Liberals and Conservatives are content that they are being given a proper voice in the selection of candidates.

What must be done is to work out an arrangement which will not make Conservatives in Esquimalt feel bound to support a candidate who announced his willingness to run providing he was "acceptable to the Liberals" any more than Liberals in other ridings including Vancouver-Point Grey, South Okanagan, Mackenzie, etc., feel that they have no choice in the selection of the candidate they are expected to support.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TORIN

"ACCORDING to the old saying," said the Elevator Man, "a cat may look at a queen. Or, as we likely put it nowadays, there's no harm in having a look. But it seems that there is. I notice in a piece from California that a fella has been charged with disorderly conduct because he stared at a girl. It seems he seemed to be working in a liquor store and the guy with spectator complex used to come in and feast his eyes for 20 minutes at a time. That was too much for the lady he was focused on. She asked him to quit. So he took to driving past the place, peering at her through binoculars. P.S.—According to the news item the girl is slim and has green eyes and honey-colored hair. Also she is married. She proved to be an arresting sight. Lower main!"

"It seems to be," said the Elevator Man, "one of the tragedies of life that if you like something so much you look at it all the time you get so used to it you don't see it any more. It's like having a favorite picture on your wall. At first you admire it every time you pass. But it isn't long before you're striding by with a blind eye. It's as though you'd eaten sugar till you couldn't taste it any more, or smelled perfume till it ceased to register. But that's life, I guess. Nature seems jealous of letting you enjoy too much. Our senses seem to have an automatic shut-off valve. Though I don't know just where it starts working with slim, green-eyed honey-blondes. Lower main!"

"Talking," said the Elevator Man, "of seeing things so much you take them for granted reminds me of that story of the married couple. They'd been married for 20 years and decided to celebrate with a little anniversary trip. As they talked it over one night, the husband kept glancing toward the next room where a little old lady sat knitting. 'I hate to say this,' he whispered, 'but just once, for the first time since we've been married, I'd like for us to be by ourselves. You know, take this trip without your mother.' 'My mother?' exclaimed the wife. 'I thought she was yours!'"

Up In Smoke

Montreal Gazette

The figures clearly show that the real net cost of cigarettes, excluding taxes, and the increase in recent years have been kept within moderate bounds, well within the reach of even low income smokers. The same can hardly be said of the voracious bites taken by progressively heavier taxation, which the Windsor Star, for example, regards as "malicious" and "designed to place the price of an article far beyond any reasonable relation to its inherent value." That cigarettes are a non-essential indulgence says the Star is "no excuse for those who use cigarettes being unfairly gouged."

Weather Synopsis

VICTORIA'S SUNSHINE
RECORD TO DATE, 1951—
2,354.7 HOURS

SYNOPSIS—Rain returned to the greater part of B.C. overnight as a Pacific disturbance which has been lying offshore for several days began to move toward the coast. The main part of this system will move across the coast during the day and some improvement in coastal weather may be then looked for. Over the interior, however, the system is expected to have a very slow motion and generally unsettled weather is to be expected both today and Friday.

Temperatures will be much cooler in all sections as the moist Pacific air floods across the coast. Winds will be light in the interior but fresh westerlies are expected over most exposed coastal waters as the system pushes inland.

REGIONAL FORECASTS VALID UNTIL MIDNIGHT
FRIDAY

VICTORIA—Cloudy today and Friday morning clearing Friday afternoon. Cooler today. Winds light. Low tonight and high tomorrow, 50 and 58.

WEST COAST—Cloudy today and tomorrow.

Too Weak For Welcome Wave

Ailing Premier Mohammed Mossadegh (right) is so weak upon arrival in New York that an aide has to help him hold his arm.

ONE HIT, ONE ERROR

Burglar Gets Jewelry Haul But Second Raid Fruitless

A burglar escaped with a quantity of jewelry from one of two homes he broke into on Dewdney Avenue, police report.

Jewelry was reported missing from the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Pa. Angus, 2796 Dewdney. Lost are a solitaire diamond ring of 14-karat yellow gold with six diamonds in a shoulder; a yellow gold ring with one diamond; a pair of gold cuff links with a diamond chip in the centre.

Entry was gained by breaking a small window in the basement to reach the door lock.

Probably the same burglar got into the basement of O. H. Lamont's home, 2700 Dewdney, but was unable to get past the door.

6 Months' Prison For $15 Forgery On Confession

Frederick Thomas Etherington, who earlier pleaded guilty to a charge of forging a cheque for $15, was sentenced to six months in prison by Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Involved in a collision at Douglas and Belleville Streets, which resulted in nearly $1,000 vehicle damage, Edwin G. Martin, 55 Ontario Street, was fined $40. His license was suspended.

No Fireworks For Small Fry

Don't sell fireworks before Oct. 24, or the long arm of the law will intervene.

This warning was given store-owners today by Deputy Police Chief Harry Mercer, who said also sales must not be made to children under 16.

He pointed out a city by-law prohibits discharge of fireworks in the city—but that this was "winked at" for the occasion of Halloween, except in cases of wilful damage.

Iran's Premier Mossadegh Meets U.N. And U.S. TV Camera Monday

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Iran's Premier Mohammed Mossadegh meets the United Nations Security Council and a United States television audience next Monday, but the ailing old man will make it brief. The council will hear Iran contend its oil dispute with Britain is a domestic matter, and no business of the U.N. The meeting has been twice postponed, first to give Mossadegh time to come from Tehran, then to let him recover from the journey.

But Mossadegh, who weeps and swoons during appearances before his own parliament, plans to speak only for five or 10 minutes to the council. Since his arrival he has been in a hospital under treatment for exhaustion. After his remarks, his official 40-page statement will be read by his country's permanent representative to the U.N., Ali Gholi Ardalan.

Britain brought the dispute before the council after Iran nationalized the country's giant British-owned oil industry and expelled British oilmen.

TEHRAN (AP)—An Iranian newspaper said today Russia has broken off trade talks with Iran, charging lack of good will. There was no official confirmation. A western economic expert said a break is not unlikely, but that it may only be temporary. The weekly Tehran-Mossavar reported that the talks had been broken off and said this would have an effect on the role to be played by Russia in the Iranian case now before the United Nations Security Council in New York.

The British banned export on such items as sugar, iron, steel and copper to Iran in retaliation for the Iranian action ordering British technicians out of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company refinery at Abadan.

REWARD FOR SERVICE

Naval Officers Back With British Brides

Two Canadians—one from Duncan—who served briefly with the British fleet in the Mediterranean, are in Victoria today with English brides.

They are Sub-Lieuts. Frank W. Costin, of Duncan, and Alan E. Booth, of Toronto.

Mrs. June Rose Costin is a Birmingham girl, and Mrs. Booth, the former Joan Cresswell, is from Lancashire.

The new couples returned together from England to Canada several weeks ago by air, and the wives are still a bit puzzled about life in their new country.

Mrs. Booth was a Wren at Malta when she met her future husband at a tea party aboard the carrier H.M.S. Triumph. They were wed last March at Little Hulton, Lancashire.

"What I'd like to know is, what is this world's series all about?" queried Mrs. Booth, who spent a few minutes Wednesday with ear glued to a radio trying to fathom the Yankees-Giants game.

Mrs. Costin just ignored the game—and went shopping.

Costin and Booth both are stationed at H.M.C.S. Naden.

Engineers Fear Union Compulsion

More than 3,000 professional engineers in British Columbia face the "danger of becoming unionized" unless the provincial labor board intervenes, R. E. Wilkins, of Vancouver, registrar-manager of the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C., warned today.

The union drive to enroll the engineers started when 50 engineers were embraced in an office employees' union and were compelled to join the union chartered by the T.L.C., Wilkins said.

"We appealed to the labor board to have engineers excluded from provisions of the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act, as in nearly every other province of Canada," explained Wilkins. "However, the government advised the act would have to be amended, and that is a slow process."

"If the professional engineer is to be made to join unions, then other professional men will be, also," Wilkins emphasized.

Seek Good, Find It Kiwanians Assured

Victoria Kiwanis Club members were urged on Tuesday to look for the good in all people. They could always find it.

Speaker at the club's regular luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel was their fellow Kiwanian, Rev. J. L. W. McLean, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

With "What's Good About It?" as his topic, he cautioned club members against adopting a negative viewpoint toward a world plagued by turmoil and social upheaval.

Victoria Move To Broaden Way To Civic Office Wins Support

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS—The way may soon be clear for thousands of British Columbians to run for municipal office who are not eligible now.

Despite the advice of its executive, Union of B.C. Municipalities, in convention here Wednesday, passed a resolution urging amendment to the Municipal Act to ease property qualifications for municipal candidates. Whereas a candidate now has to have a $300 investment in real estate unencumbered, the resolution would permit him to run for office with a $500 investment regardless of mortgages. The resolution from Victoria stemmed from the disqualification of Roy Whittle at the last December election, when it was learned that though he had paid $3,500 on his house, the mortgage was still higher than the assessed value, leaving him without the $500 "unencumbered."

Debate on a resolution asking the provincial government to provide free cortisone for arthritis and rheumatism sufferers caused a verbal tilt between Mayor Percy George and Burnaby Councillor George Isherwood. The latter said the U.B.C.M. was becoming "hidebound."

Mayor George took the floor to defend the executive, which had advised against passing the resolution. Convention passed the resolution.

One thousand children from the city and unorganized area were attending the big consolidated school in the city, but the 329 district municipality children were not.

The reeve said the school board refused to educate them on the grounds that it has not the money to hire enough teachers. The board also contended the district municipality has not paid its full share of school costs for this year.

Reeve Charles Schultz of Surrey, second, Colin McQuarrie of New Westminster was re-elected solicitor. Other executive committee members: Reeve W. R. Beamish of Burnaby; Mayor George Dezell, Prince George; Mayor E. G. Fletcher, Trail; Mayor F. H. Jackson, New Westminster; Ald. W. Jordan, Kamloops; Ald. George C. Miller, Vancouver; and Mayor W. A. Rathbun, Penticton.

He is now entering his 20th year in the post. Mayor E. C. Westwood of Nanaimo, named to the executive committee, was the only other Vancouver Island man on the new slate of officers.

F. R. Goldsworthy of North Vancouver was elected president, replacing Mayor Percy George, who has announced his retirement from municipal politics the end of his present term.

Mayor R. E. Sang of Cranbrook is first vice-president and Reeve Charles Schultz of Surrey, second. Colin McQuarrie of New Westminster was re-elected solicitor. Other executive committee members: Reeve W. R. Beamish of Burnaby; Mayor George Dezell, Prince George; Mayor E. G. Fletcher, Trail; Mayor F. H. Jackson, New Westminster; Ald. W. Jordan, Kamloops; Ald. George C. Miller, Vancouver; and Mayor W. A. Rathbun, Penticton.

Reeve Sydney Pickles of Central Saanich, said the municipality wanted more than the "few hundred dollars" it now gets annually from the Brentwood Bay power plant. More money from utilities, particularly the B.C. Electric, was the cry.

Right to tax transmission equipment of electric, telephone and telegraph companies will be asked of the provincial government following U.B.C.M. endorsement of a resolution from Vancouver Island Association of Municipalities.

A purse containing $40 and personal effects, stolen from the basement apartment of Miss Muriel Hindybank, 2617 Belmont, was found Wednesday night in an adjacent lot—minus the money, city police reported.

Resolution asking the province to give it a new tax deal with regard to public utilities, presented by Central Saanich, won support from the U.B.C.M.

Discuss School Costs

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS—Controversial issue of school costs and hospital payments came before the Union of B.C. Municipalities at its closing sessions here today.

Reports of special committees preceded debate. Social services and re-division of the municipalities' share of the three per cent provincial sales tax revenue, also came up for discussion.

Seek Help In Loans

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS—Union of British Columbia Municipalities wants provincial government help in financing self-liquidating loans.

A resolution passed by the U.B.C.M. convention here Wednesday called on the government to set up a fund to aid municipalities in financing self-liquidating projects at a rate of interest not to exceed 2 per cent.

Suffocating "Hot Flashes" stopped or strikingly relieved—in doctors' tests!

"Are you going through 'change of life'—suffering the 'hot flashes,' nervous tension, irritability, weakness and other types of functional distress of this difficult time?"

Then...here's hope for you. In tests by doctors—on their own patients—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave relief from such distress. Complete or striking relief! In case after case!

NOTE: Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is grand, too, for the functional pains, cramps, and "weak" feelings of menopause! Millions of younger women, and girls, use it for this purpose! It strikes directly at the cause of men- strual distress!

you know what it has done for others! But do you know what it will do for you? Not if you haven't experienced the relief of tension, "flashes" and irritability it so often brings at such times!

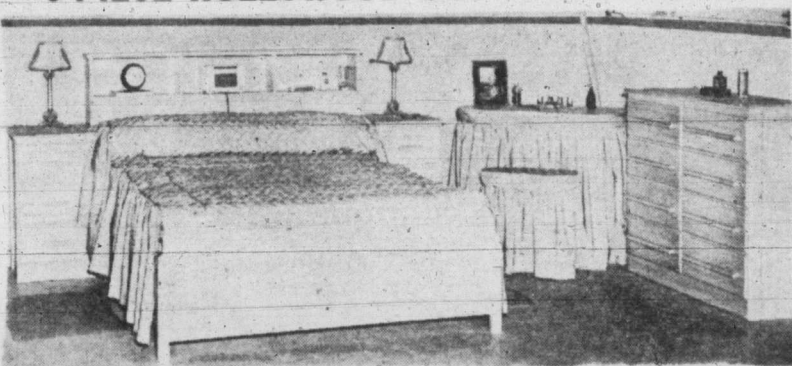

Before another day has passed—try Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and discover how much easier your "change of life" may be!

*MRS. CONSTABLE...

...Mrs. Constable, have you been a purchaser of Canada Savings Bonds?

Yes, I've bought bonds every year.

What led you to buy them?

Well, it really began back in the wartime days. At that time I was working in Toronto and I began putting some of my pay into War Savings Certificates. Then, as my work improved and my pay increased, I added the increase to my purchases.

What was uppermost in your mind when you made these investments?

Savings. I have always felt it was important to have cash put by for things you might need later on. I like to pay cash for everything. Paying up for things on a time payment plan seems to me like "mortgaging" your income.

Have you had any occasion to use the savings that have accumulated in Canada Savings Bonds?

Yes. Some time ago the plant where I work was moved to the outskirts of London and the question of getting to and from work became a problem. Because I had bought Canada Savings Bonds in past years I was able to buy a car and the problem was solved. I paid cash for it too.

How did you buy your Canada Savings Bonds?

Through deductions from my pay at the office. I have seen so many people get behind with things just because they have no regular system of saving that I have an extra appreciation of this method. You know... I always remember the depression days when so many people found themselves in difficulty because they had not saved regularly.

Do you expect to buy the new Canada Savings Bonds?

Yes. I will be signing up for them as I always do.

- NOW BETTER THAN EVER
- Canada Savings Bonds—6th Series—mature in 10 years and 9 months from date of issue and bear ten 3½% coupons.
- The first coupon covers 1 year and 9 months and is payable on August 1st, 1953; subsequent coupons come due August 1st yearly thereafter until maturity. If cashed before August 1st, 1953, simple interest is paid at 2% per year, calculated monthly. If held to maturity the overall yield is equivalent to 3.21% per year. The limit for holdings in any one name is $5,000 in the 6th Series. The bonds are cashable at full face value, plus interest at any time at any bank in Canada.
- They are registered in the owner's name. They are non-transferable and non-transferrable.

*Mrs. Dorothy Constable lives at 81 Blackfriars St., London, Ontario, and is one of more than a million Canadians who have invested regularly in Canada Savings Bonds. She is assistant to the personnel manager of Somerville Ltd., in London, Ontario. She is a member of the Highland Golf Club, Vice-President of the Business and Professional Women's Club and Secretary-Treasurer of the Personnel Association of London. As The Giants Go Down To Defeat ... Or Who Cares About Hockey?

When hockey players are not on the ice, they like to relax. The Victoria Cougars are no exception and they have their own methods of taking five. At the left, several of the new players listen to the world series while reclining on a soft mattress. The glum expressions on the faces of (left to right) Leon Bouchard, Jim Shirley, Dewar Thomson, Bob Bowness, Doug Anderson and Doug McNeill indicate that the Cougars are largely Giant fans. While they listen to the radio, three of the other Cats give vent to the romance in their souls (right). Joe Medynski, Andy Henton and Jim Shirley like to read between ice sessions and their tastes run to the dime pulp romances such as Secret Romances, a book of "exciting love stories." The three Lotharios spent most of yesterday afternoon in Nanaimo Square reading over the shoulder of Thelma Larindino who just happened to have a copy of the players' favorite book with her. After their afternoon holiday yesterday, the Cougars defeated Nanaimo Clippers 5-4 in an exhibition game at Nanaimo Civic Arena last night.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

There's a bit of a quarrel going on these days between Victoria United on the one hand and the Victoria and District Football Association on the other. The matter has reached a head over United's apparent refusal to pay its dues into the association after agreeing to do so. The innocent parties in the case are 11 young men who, according to the association, have been proven guilty of failing to abide by rules and regulations as laid down by the parent city body.

Now as we see it, Victoria City as a club is in the wrong for not admitting its affiliation with United at the time of its acceptance in the league. Victoria United is in the wrong for not fulfilling its financial obligations, and the city association is at fault for forever quarrelling with United, and vice versa.

Soccer will get nowhere in particular until this mess is straightened out to the satisfaction of all concerned. United has a football team this year that is capable of drawing more than the required number of spectators into Athletic Park to pay for its keep. This is quite different than in years gone by when some of the boys went without shoes at the end of the season. But so far that is all United is doing—providing boots for its players. And football players are entitled to boots even though it is apparent that sometimes they get both feet into one shoe.

And that appears to be the case in the present squabble. Everybody's trying to score a goal, but nobody's succeeding because they're all tangled up in each other's feet.

Meanwhile there's a bunch of fellows picking their teeth on the sidelines while various club and league executives spend their time splitting hairs. Neither trait is conducive to the best interests of sport and no prizes will be given to the winner, however accomplished these individuals may become in their particular hobby.

Let's Stop Chasing Our Tails

This affair has been on the books for better than two weeks now. Surely there must be an answer to the problem. If United is at fault, let United pay the penalty—in cash. That seems to be the main bone the dogs are chewing on these days, though meat is still at a premium.

If the city association is at fault because of its poor public relations—and these relations are becoming more strained with each succeeding mouthful of this distasteful morsel—then let the city association forgive and forget. But never, of course, allowing United to forget where its obligation lies.

Perhaps United hasn't got any money. That appears to be as sound a reason as any for not paying its debt. It's stood up for the past three years and will, unless these soccer badgers can get their thick-skinned heads to the ball instead of their feet, be the same sad situation this season.

The petty pickin' problem has been kicked around enough. Either let City play the game its members want to play as a team or ask for a final ruling from the governing body. Surely there must be someone somewhere with the required authority to act.

Soccer could do with a shot in the arm, not another kick in the pants. The bitches have been worn thin enough as it is.

LEO OFFERED BRIBE TO THROW FINAL 3 GAMES

NEW YORK (UP).—Leo Durocher was offered a $15,000 bribe to throw "the next three games" of the World Series on Oct. 6 when his New York Giants were leading the series two games to one. At the same time his wife, actress Laraine Day, was threatened.

"There's $15,000 for you and your team if you manage to lose the next three games," an anonymous letter the Giant's manager received said. "If you are interested call a telephone number was listed here." If you want to keep Laraine, better keep your mouth shut.

The letter, turned over to Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick before yesterday's game, was typewritten on Strand Hotel (Atlantic City, N.J.) stationery. It had been on Durocher's desk several days along with thousands of other letters before being opened.

COUGARS NIP NANAIMO

Royals Spoil Flyers Debut

The Pacific Coast Hockey League season is eight games old. Saskatoon Quakers haven't played a game yet but they can tie for third place if they beat New Westminster Royals tonight.

Royals have played four games and taken seven points to put themselves five points out in front of the pack with the season only six days along.

They ran their unbeaten string to four last night at Edmonton by blanking the Flyers 10-0 before 3,000 fans seeing their first coast league game at home.

DECHENE STARRY

Both goalies looked very good. Roly poly Lucien Dechene stopped 23 drives for his shut-out. Bill Brennan handled 33 shots in the opposing net.

Seattle Ironmen picked up their first victory last night, beating Tacoma Rockets 3-2 on the goaling of Doug Jackson. Given plenty of blistering shots by Cougars "old line" of Abbott-Hoberton-Frampton. Jackson came through the blitz in spectacular fashion.

Medynski's two goals for Victoria sandwiched others from Leger, Cougar playing coach; Bernie Strongman, Cougar team captain, and Andy Heberton.

COUGARS TOOK A 2-0 LEAD IN THE first period but were held scoreless in the second. Clippers sliced the lead to 2-1 early in the third and from there to the finish of the game the fans were treated to bank-up puck fare.

Nanaimo, playing its first game against a pro club with three exhibitions and one league fixture, gave coach Roger Leger's cats plenty of opposition. The game proved one of the most exciting for a first game seen here in many seasons.

BAUER WAS HERO

'Old Case' Sure To Be Back Now

NEW YORK (AP).—Casey Stengel sits atop the baseball world today with three straight world championships in his first three years as manager of New York Yankees.

You can bet your bottom dollar that the grizzled old skipper will be back in 1952 to complete his $65,000-plus contract. And probably 1953 and so on.

Unless poor health dampens the fire of this old-war horse, he'll be back as long as they want him. Right now, that's probably forever.

Bauer emerged a double hero. His hit over Monte Irvin's head won the game from Dave Koslo. His sliding catch of pinch-hitter Sal Yvar's sinking liner saved the day in the ninth.

All the credit in the world belongs to the Giants who clawed from last to first in the most exciting playoff series in all baseball history. They never quit when the Dodgers had them 4-1 going into the ninth in the last playoff game. And they went to the ninth, trailing by that same 4-1 score.

Durocher got a terrific series from Monte Irvin with his .458 average and his 11 hits that tied Dave Robertson's old Giant mark of 1917 for a six-game series.

Ditto for Alvin Dark (.417) who played errorless ball at shortstop and chimed in with 10 hits.

A 1-0 Yank lead in the first inning lasted until the fifth when the Giants tied on Willie Mays' single, a passed ball and two fly balls.

Then came the sixth. With one out Yogi Berra singled to right and took second on Hank Thompson's tumble. Joe DiMaggio was walked intentionally. Koslo uncorked a wild pitch that let both runners advance. Johnny Mize walked to load the bases. Bauer hammered a long fly over Irvin's head for a three-run triple and the game.

The real dramatics came in the ninth when Eddie Stanky singled, Dark beat out a bunt for a hit and Whitey Lockman singled to load the bases. Sain was done and Casey waved in Kuzawa.

The lefty got Irvin and Thompson on fly balls to Woodling. Each time a run scored after the catch, closing the gap to 4-3.

With Lockman on second, representing the tying run, Yvars sent the sinking liner that Bauer just did catch on his knees.

BAUER COMES THROUGH
Still Hank Bauer's 400-foot triple cleared the bases with the winning runs in the sixth. That was the ball game, although it took a bit of doing to keep it under control.

FUTURE IN DOUBT

DiMag Can't Make Up Mind

NEW YORK (AP).—Did the ringing double in his last time at bat toll Joe DiMaggio's farewell to baseball?

Not even DiMaggio knows the answer. The first question reporters put to DiMaggio yesterday after the Yankees won the world series for the third straight year was:

"Are you coming back next year, Joe?"

The Yankee Clipper, who established a record by playing on his ninth world championship club, replied:

"Fellows, I just don't know. I haven't been able to make up my mind."

DiMaggio's teammates who might have sensed that he may never be back at the Yankee Stadium, his baseball home for 16 years, took no chances.

They had Joe autograph their bats, gloves, baseballs and photographs. Several requested and received some of his pet bats.

This is the toughest decision DiMaggio has had to make since he joined the Yankees in 1936 as a youngster of 21.

DiMaggio suffered his poorest year this past season hitting .263.

His sub-normal batting, however, did not affect his fielding and base running. And there were days when he looked to be the old DiMaggio at the plate, too. Like in the fourth World Series game when he lashed a home run and two singles.

"We couldn't have won without him," shouted manager Casey Stengel for all to hear. "And we need him next year, too."

DiMaggio wants to keep on playing but only as a top-notch. His pride won't allow him to plod along as a mediocre performer.

HUGE WELCOME GIVEN PETES ON ARRIVAL HOME

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP).—Peterborough Petes came home to a giant celebration last night after winning the Canadian senior lacrosse championship from Vancouver Combines.

The city turned out en masse and a crowd of about 20,000 was on hand to welcome the Mann Cup champions.

A parade formed at the railway station and continued to the Armories. The parade was led by the citizens' band, followed by the club executive in six open cars. A fire truck, with the Mann Cup perched in it, was next in line, and the Canadian General Electric pipe band brought up the rear.

Then came the players in a semi-trailer truck flanked by members of various other Peterborough lacrosse teams.

WINGS FAVORED

N.H.L. Season Away Tonight

With nothing left of the world series but a welter of post-mortems and a dying gasp that will hog a huge chunk of North America's sports pages for the last time this season, the National Hockey League campaign opens tonight on two fronts. For the next six weeks, hockey's only big competition at the gate will be football.

Four of the N.H.L.'s six teams officially start the five and a half month 70-game schedule with faceoffs at Montreal and at Detroit. It will be Chicago Black Hawks against Canadiens and Boston Bruins against the Red Wings at Detroit Olympia.

Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup champions, open defense of the title at home against the Black Hawks Saturday and New York Rangers complete the league's opening ceremonies at home Sunday—also against the Hawks.

The crystal ball has been tossed around at the various trafficking camps the last few weeks and the experts, speaking for publication, have donated only two of the four playoff spots. The pre-season prognostications go to Detroit, 1950-51 league champions, and the Canadiens to finish one-two in that order.

The other four—including the world champion Leafs—will settle for fourth place, final playoff spot. But, on past performances and with off-season deals, the most reliable order of finish appears to be:

Detroit for a repeat league championship performance with the Leafs and Canadiens a toss-up for second and Rangers to complete the final four-team playoff picture. The Bruins, who edged out New York by one point for fourth position in the 1950-51 season, and Black Hawks are slated for the also-ran slots.

HAWKS RATE POORLY

The Hawks, who finished with a sickly 36 points made up of 13 victories and 10 drawn games, figured in a six-player deal with Detroit this summer to highlight off-season reshuffling. In addition, defenseman black Jack Stewart is reported in top form after sitting out most of last season with a back injury but the $75,000 trade, according to coach Ebbie Goodfellow, has made the Hawks only 25 per cent stronger.

Rangers also made a few summer deals, aimed principally to give the Blueshirts badly-needed scoring power. They farmed out three veterans to their Cincinnati club in the American League and brought up youngsters. Rangers were impressive in exhibition games and manager Frank Boucher predicted they will hit the playoffs this time "for sure."

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Roy Wooters, 199, Montreal, outpointed Billy Kilgore, 196, Miami, 10.

RAINIER GET FIVE FOR TWO

CHICAGO (UP).—The Chicago White Sox traded four pitchers and an infielder for the Seattle Rainiers' top two hurlers today.

The Pacific Coast League team handed over Marv Grissom, a 33-year-old right-hander who won 20 games and lost 11 last season, and Hector (Skinny) Brown, whose record was 16-6.

In return the Sox gave up pitchers Marv Roblitt, Jerome Dahlke, Dick Duffy and Bill Fischer and infielder Jim Baumer.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Oliver Unionizes Team

"So Lackie is 'the maker of champions,' is he? Well, we'll just see about that."

That was the comment given by Bill Oliver, erstwhile manager of the Civil Service team of the Commercial Hockey League. Oliver was referring to a recent story that said that Jim Lackie of Victoria Merchants is the "maker of champions."

"If you are handing out titles," said Oliver, "you can say that Bill Oliver is 'the organizer.' I have organized the employees' association in the Civil Service and I intend to put out a hockey team that will be just as strong as our association."

"If we don't do anything else this year, we will beat Mr. Lackie's team."

The reason that Oliver is so anxious to beat Lackie's Victoria Merchants is that Lackie claimed to have Archie McLean, late of the Navy, in his fold. But now Oliver says "Lackie has McLean, has he? You can come to my office right now and I will show you McLean's signature on a Civil Service player's card. He's my player, not Lackie's."

The second big surprise that Oliver is springing on the mercantile loop concerns Gordie Keats.

Keats, son of the immortal Duke Keats, has been out of town for some time, and while every team would like to have him, most had given him up for lost. Not Oliver, however. He beat all the other teams to the punch by acquiring Keats using copious quantities of telegrams. "Gordie wired me that he would be out for us," said Oliver.

SENIOR COACHING

Coaching the Civil Service team this year will be Alan Senior, an ex-member of the Victoria Cougars. Senior is not saying much about the club as he is waiting to see the players on ice.

Dave Freisen of last year's club will be in goal again this

For the forward positions he can choose Keats, Al Davyduk, Jim Hallam, Ernie White, Lorne McConechy and Gordy Morrison.

WAITING FOR ICE

"Those are just a few of the players that we have," said Oliver. "We have been swamped with applications but I can't say much until Senior sees the players on ice."

Oliver claims to have several good unknown players under wraps and says that Freisen has

Layne Stopped By Ez In 11th

PITTSBURGH (AP).—Ezzard Charles is hot on the comeback trail today after knocking out Rex Layne in the same ring where he lost his heavyweight title to Jersey Joe Walcott.

Charles stopped the 23-year-old Salt Lake City, Utah, boxer in 2:32 of the 11th round last night in an interesting but unimpressive bout before a disappointing turnout of 6,257 fans at Forbes Field.

Charles weighed 188, heaviest of his fighting career, and Layne 195½. The fight grossed $39,763, including $25,000 for television rights. Temperatures in the low 50's kept down the attendance.

brought a couple of members of the R.C.M.P. out for the team.

Russ Parker will be spare goalie, Jack Foyer, first-aid man, and Bill Hill, equipment manager.

Oliver intimates that the G-men will have more than a team this year—they will have an organized ice union. Which brings to mind the old saying, "In union there is strength."

Vic High's other two tries were scored by Glenn Hawkins and Darcy de Hart, both of whom played a sterling offensive game.

For Mount View the Russel brothers, Norm and Frank, put on an outstanding performance with a display of deadly tackling which put a damper on many of Vic High's runs.

The next senior B game is scheduled for Oct. 17, between Mount Doug and Vic High, at Mount Douglas.

City-Ruggers Whip Mt. View In B Opener

The senior B English rugby season opened at Vic High School Wednesday with Vic High playing host to Mount View.

It was a fast, driving game all the way with the Fernwood Street squad running over Mount View 29-0.

Dave Ashford and John Whan took Vic High scoring honors, Ashford getting four tries and a convert while Whan scored three majors.

Vic High's other two tries were scored by Glenn Hawkins and Darcy de Hart, both of whom played a sterling offensive game. For Mount View the Russel brothers, Norm and Frank, put on an outstanding performance with a display of deadly tackling which put a damper on many of Vic High's runs.

The next senior B game is scheduled for Oct. 17, between Mount Doug and Vic High, at Mount Douglas.

CHAMPIONSHIP DISPLAY

What! No Sponsor

Charlie Lewis shouldn't have much trouble finding a sponsor for his Senior B men's basketball team after last night.

Playing its first game with no sponsor the club whipped Victoria College Vikings, 66-21, at Vic High gym. Lewis' club completely outplayed the Vikings and can be counted on to be a major threat in the Senior B loop.

Gordie Bamford was the top sniper, popping in 19 points. Archie McIntosh led the Vikings with nine.

Stripping only six players, Dickinson & Dunn took an intermediate A decision from Scott & Peden by a 34-23 count. Jerry Parker and Bill Garner led the winners with 11 and 10 points respectively.

In an exhibition game, St.

Louis College Intermediate B boys whipped St. Louis College juniors, 39-15.

Line-ups follow:

Victoria College—E. Chubaywick 4, M. Paget, A. McIntosh 8, Robin Shaye 2, Don Hapness 3, Ken Barker 2, Frank Preston 1, Gordon Smith, Bert Ingram, Gerry Bowen. Total—21.

St. Louis College—George Bishop 5, Gordon Munnie 2, Jim Lewis 3, Wajj Aceman 11, Al Boyd 5, Gordie Bamford 19, E. McDonald, Roger Gordon 6, Ron Smith 2, Ray Crabbe 3, Bill Nicholson. Total—66.

Scott & Peden—Alan Davies 4, Ron Hunter 5, Barry Jackson 6, Ken Stokes 2, Jack Miller 1, Roger Wendell, Ted Saunders 3, Laurie Vetch 3, Gerry Buxton. Total—21.

Dickinson & Dunn—Bob Allen 2, Bill Bamford 2, Bill Gainer 10, Don Hendry 3, J. Parker 11, George Woullett 6. Total—34.

St. Louis College Intermediate—B—Bishop 5, Barry Jackson 6, Ken Stokes 2, J. Parker 11, Roger Wendell, Ted Saunders 3, Laurie Vetch 3, Gerry Buxton. Total—34.

Major Natural Gas Discovery
Reported Northwest Of Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP)—A major natural gas discovery in the Peace River sector of northwestern Alberta was reported Wednesday by the exploration team of Hudson's Bay-Union-Texaco.

The well, Hudson's Bay-Union-Texaco No. 1, rated an initial production potential of 66,000,000 cubic feet daily in early testing. It is about 265 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The well found indications of crude but could not be completed as a commercial oil producer.

Supports Bay Route

REGINA (CP)—Importance of making fullest possible use of every day of the Hudson Bay route shipping season was stressed Wednesday by Sir Clement Jones, of London, England, chairman of the Commonwealth shipping committee.

Addressing a provincial government banquet in his honor, Sir Clement said it was important to get the most out of every day because even if the shipping season was extended it was still a "limited, closed season."

"You can put me down... as a real Hudson Bay (route) man," he said.

Sir Clement said he was in Churchill, Man., Tuesday. Although the weather was fine, no ships were in the port. The last one had gone out October 4, this despite the fact the season never ended until Wednesday.

In discussions at Churchill, he said, all had agreed that more ships could have been handled if they had come to the port. More tonnage also could have been handled at the beginning of the season.

Army Needs Medics

EDMONTON (CP)—The Canadian army is subsidizing medical students in Canadian universities in an effort to meet the shortage of medical officers, Brig. W. L. Coke, director-general of medical services, said Wednesday at a press conference.

Brig. Coke, touring army hospitals in the west, needs 60 more doctors to fill present vacancies.

Full pay and allowance of a second lieutenant will be paid to university students in their last year before reaching legal ability to practise as a doctor. This means payment for 12 months to those serving internship during their last year and payment for eight months to those completing their graduation in school.

Some graduates take up practice immediately while others must spend one year intern, depending upon the university.

Qualified doctors will enter the army at the rank of captain.

The army demands that its medical officers spend at least one year in five in improving their professional standing, Brig. Coke said.

Foil Bank Robbers

WINNIPEG (CP)—Attempted robberies at two banks in suburban St. Boniface were thwarted early Wednesday—one by patrolling constables, the other by a brick wall.

One suspect was captured after a chase and tussle in which three shots were fired. Police said Stanley Palowski, 29, of Winnipeg, will appear in court on a charge of breaking and entering.

Another suspect escaped in the chase and tussle during which he was once felled by a constable's flashlight. A suspect now free on $12,000 bail on other breaking charges was picked up for questioning in Winnipeg later.

Two men were surprised by police as they attempted to crack the vault of the Dominion Bank near the St. Boniface stockyards. Later it was reported two attempts had been made to drill a hole into the vault of the nearby Bank of Toronto.

Dow Jones closing New York index: 20 Industrials—274.10, up 1.34; 20 Railroads—86.88, up .37; 15 Utilities—46.35, up .36; 65 Stocks—99.65, up .36. Volume, 1,760,000 shares.

Toronto averages: Industrials—358.09, up .48; Golds—86.41, off 1.11; Base metals—197.57, off .32; Western oils—125.12, up 1.66. Sales 7,337,000 shares.

Montreal averages: Industrials—241.00, off .87; Utilities—88.30, off .10; Golds—82.12, up 1.10; Pulp-Papers—82.12, up .44. Sales 933,900 shares.

New Record Volume On Toronto

TORONTO—All records for the exchange were broken today when the turnover topped 7,000,000 shares.

Industrial regained support and climbed from early afternoon weakness.

There was extremely heavy dealing in low-priced western oils, base metals and golds. Industrial activity, particularly in market leaders, "picked up" steadily.

Liquors and manufacturing companies mustered most support to form industrial strong sections. Construction, steel and refining oils were firm while papers, foods, banks and retail stores turned mixed. Agriculture and textiles were unchanged but utilities weakened.

Western oils held firm. Volumes ranging from 100,000 shares to about 400,000 shares were recorded by Anchor, De-cal, Flank, Jupiter, New Pacific, Redwater-Piccadilly and Superior. East Crest, Kroy, Model, Omnitrans and Pan Western were also active.

Oils Advance

VANCOUVER—Strength was shown generally in the oil section. York advanced 10 cents to a new high of 64 on drilling news, while Highwood Central added 10 cents to 36.

Calvan at 7.25, Vulcan at 1.10, and Anglo-Canadian at 7.35, were also up 10 cents each. A.P. Con rose 2 cents to .55. Slightly lower were Royal Canadian at .18 and Del Rio at 1.70.

There were odd features in mines. Silvan made another new high at 1.47, up 2 cents, as did International Coal and Coke at .72, with a subsequent dip to .69 which still left it a nickel ahead. Kootenay Belle was active and higher at 1.23, while Western Uranium gained a nickel at 6.05. American Standard was 2 cents lower at .25.

B.C. Forest Products was up a quarter at 9%.

Papers Turn Firmer

MONTREAL (CP).—Stock prices settled into a narrowly mixed price path near the close today. Trading was moderate.

Steels, beverages and banks were mixed. Papers, utilities and senior oils were slightly firmer while industrials, senior metals, and carriers eased a trifle.

Firmer were building products, Bathurst "A", Fraser, International Paper, St. Lawrence Corporation, International Utilities, Shawinigan, Seagrams, International Nickel, Massey-Harris and Bank of Nova Scotia.

Mines followed the industrial market, while western oils were active and strong. Changes were mostly limited to pennies.

Wall St. Buys

NEW YORK (AP).—Generous buying surges through one section of the stock market after another put prices higher today after a two-day decline.

Advances among the leaders carried to around two points at the best, with a few higher-priced issues going considerably beyond, and losses were usually held down below a point.

Radio-television issues were the first to show signs of life, and they advanced markedly. By the time their vigor was spent, steels and aircraft came to life with the rails joining in substantially.

In the late afternoon the motion picture division posted sharp advances all along the line. Utilities held steady to higher all day.

Motors were up but not active, and in that category were rubbers and non-ferrous metals. Canadian issues were higher. Distillers Seagrams was up 1%, Hiram Walker gained 1% and McIntyre moved up 1/2.

THROUGH EYES OF LITTLE GIRLS Children Give Couple Spontaneous Welcome

OTTAWA (UP)—Every princess should be seen through the eyes of a little girl.

It's little girls with wide, solemn eyes who make a slightly weary and very shy girl into a fairy tale figure who lives in a world of palaces and princes.

And it's the older girls, standing on tip-toes to see Princess Elizabeth, who say: "She's very lovely, but remember how beautiful the queen looked—like something from a story book!"

They were the little girls pushing in front of the crowds 12 years ago when Queen Elizabeth and King George VI toured Canada.

Everywhere Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip have gone on their first trip to this continent, the children have given them the most spontaneous, and certainly the noisiest, welcomes. They don't sing "God Save the King"—they shout it.

They don't mind the stern words of the Mounties telling them to get back behind the barriers—they just crawl back and then pop out again a few paces away. One distracted Mountie, tall and colorful in his bright red coat, herded a tiny, golden-haired girl away from the edge of the arrival platform here Wednesday three times before finally giving up in embarrassment and just looking the other way.

Princess—With The Laughing Face

Whatever Princess Elizabeth has in charm, vivaciousness, and yet queenliness, is caught in AP's magnificent wirephoto. Canadians who know Elizabeth only through formal court photography and posed snaps will be infected by the abundant charm and joy of living reflected on the face of the heiress presumptive to an Empire.

The photograph was taken during the state dinner at Government House, Ottawa, Wednesday night.

Philip Makes Big Hit With Canadian Folk

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA (CP)—You'll be hearing Philip stories popping up all over the place any time now.

The Prince is terrific. The women are saying it with stars in their eyes. The menfolk are saying it, too, because they think he's a good guy.

He turned loose his wit—fast becoming celebrated even in the infant stages of the Royal tour—at a reception for the press Wednesday and the results were devastating.

But the reputation of this rugged, handsome, laughing Prince was abiding before that.

People on the Royal train are still talking about an incident that happened Monday as the train moved through the Quebec countryside and unexpectedly came to a halt in a small village.

Several hundred people were out. There were no plans for a

Popping Flash Bulbs Worry Princess

By FRANK H. FISHER

OTTAWA (BUP)—The good-natured Duke of Edinburgh hoped today photographers would keep their distance because his photogenic wife, Princess Elizabeth, worries about popping flash bulbs.

Prince Philip, a favorite of photographers himself, chided the men with the cameras at a press reception Wednesday for being over-eager in their efforts to get close-ups of Britain's next ruler.

He reminded them that several photographers had been collared by Royal Canadian Mounted Police constables for violating the 15-foot rule imposed by security officers on the Royal tour.

Shortly after the sailor Duke had finished his chat with the photographers, a defective flash bulb exploded while the Prince and Princess were visiting the national archives.

Spectators in the small room were startled by the sharp report, but Elizabeth and Philip smiled.

"What did I tell you?" Philip asked the photographer, R. M. J. Hanley of Hamilton (Ont.) Special.

tator, who had attended the earlier reception.

Hanley, whose protective screen over the reflector of his flash gun kept flying glass from injuring the Royal couple, apologized to the Princess.

"That's all right," she said graciously. "You had a guard on it."

Czechs Reported Ready To Talk Terms On Oatis

WASHINGTON (UP)—New evidence from official and underground sources today suggested that Communist Czechoslovakia soon will be ready to talk terms for release of American newsman William N. Oatis.

Paradoxically, Russia is reported to be helping the United States campaign, but not for the same reasons.

Informants have reported that the Czech government is wincing under double-barrelled pressure from the United States and Russia on trade restrictions in

New Babies Take Note, Parents Are Learning

Victoria's popular Parentcraft Classes for young mothers-to-be—and fathers-to-be—for that matter—will get underway again at 2 o'clock when a new series starts in the Y.W.C.A.

Sponsored by the Victorian Order of Nurses, the series comprise lectures by doctors, V.O.N. and public health nurses and a psychologist.

Co-operating on the project are Victoria-Esquamalt Health Department and Saanich and South V.I.

"In the 10 subjects covered, we try to give all the information that mothers in the past have desired, a spokesman for the parentcraft class committee said.

Miss Marjorie Baird, V.O.N. supervisor, will give the introduction Monday; outlining purposes and objectives of the classes.

The baby's growth and development, general health care of the mother, food and recipes for expectant mothers, breast feeding and care, demonstration of baby bath, preparation for the baby's arrival and the newborn and its care, are among subjects covered.

The first six classes will be held in the Y.W.C.A. The seventh class will meet in the rotunda of Royal Jubilee Hospital maternity wing, with the mothers-to-be taken on a tour of the wing. The last three classes will be held at 8 in the evening at the Health Centre, 750 Pandora Avenue.

Classes for fathers will be held at the same time in another meeting room of the Health Centre.

voked by U.S. government agencies.

The United States is embarked on a rigid policy of trying to dry up Czech trade as a lever designed to get Oatis free of his 10-year sentence on trumped-up spy charges. The policy is beginning to pay dividends, according to reports received from Europe where Czech businessmen are surprised and dismayed over rapidly diminishing markets for Czech products normally sold to the United States.

Underground sources claim information that Russia is putting the squeeze on Czechoslovakia to get more western materials for production that normally flows to the Soviet Union from that country. The American-enforced trade curbs, it is said, are having a definite effect on Russia's trade with Czechoslovakia.

Czechoslovakia has been able to meet some of its contracts with Russia by buying copper and other scarce materials on European black markets. The United States now is trying to dry up these markets in co-operation with western European governments to hurt the Reds' partnerships.

Lack Of Ground Water Dangerous B.C. Engineers Hunting Supplies

The province has started a program of study to determine the availability of ground water in several sections of the country.

The work is being carried out by the provincial department of mines in collaboration with the water rights branch of the lands department.

Findings will assist in making the best use of ground water—in short supply in some parts of British Columbia.

This past season mines department geologist Hugh Naismith has been making ground water studies south of Prince George, at Keremeos and in the South Okanagan area. Studies are planned in other areas in the future.

STIFLE DEVELOPMENT

The mines department places much importance on supplies of ground water because acute shortages can stifle development in a district. In some sections of the United States this already has happened. Aim of the mines department is to avoid such an occurrence in this province by locating available supplies.

"We are trying to be reasonably foresighted," said Dr. Hartley Sargent, chief of the mineralogical branch.

Most of the department geologists have now returned from the field after a long season, and will spend the winter on laboratory and other testing work.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1951

By ART STOTT

Peard Sutherland is a friendly and affable man. His personality is ideally suited to his job in the public relations branch of the B.C. Telephone Company. Almost, he can explain away the gripes people nurture against that outfit—almost. When he was over from Vancouver last week, he listened to a Victoria resident renew pleas for a private line to his home. When the discussion ended, the Victorian agreed that maybe he ought to have two or three more parties on his present party line.

Peard Sutherland has a kindly and amiable way about him. But five items prevent him from being the perfect Chum. They're volumes 1, 3, 4, 5 and 6 of that boys' annual. Peard collects old boys' books. His series of Chums is complete but for those early editions. He'd like to lay hands on the missing numbers. What would he pay for them? As little as possible, he says.

SOMEONE TOLD him he should look for the old Chums in Victoria. This town, his informant said, would be just the place to produce them. Peard's hopeful.

In scores of homes here, Chums used to be as much a Christmas morning institution as the Christmas tree itself. If there wasn't a big oblong package, like a big slab of plank, among the gifts, there might as well have been no tree at all to the youngster in that household. With Chums as a gift, a boy had something to last him through the remaining nights of winter and for wet weather reading on Saturday afternoons. That and the Boys' Own Annual were solid fare.

With the exception of Tom Sawyer, Huck Finn, Penrod and Peck's Bad Boy, most of a youngster's reading material seemed to come from Britain. There were two or three grand Canadian books, Ralph Connor's "Glenary School Days" and "The Man From Glenary," as well as Pauline Johnson's "Shaggyanappi," but native food for the young reading appetite was neglected.

SO A KID WENT through Chums, Boys' Own Annual, Tom Brown's School Days, G. A. Henry's works and the like. Instead of reading about hockey—it was "shiny" in Glenary School Days—and lacrosse or baseball, he found himself taking in great gulps of cricket and tigger.

He learned a new, or strange, vocabulary from the British books. Outside, playing with the gang, he'd yell "Jigger" when he wanted to urge his friends to hide. In his reading life, "Jigger" would change to "Cove," or was it "Cave"? He assumed that "Cove" meant "Jigger," but he never knew why.

Probably a youngster in the British-public-school-story age had never heard the remark about the Battle of Waterloo being won on the playing fields of Eton. If he hadn't, he'd probably assume that almost every righteous fight from the time of "William the Conqueror" onward was won in the pages of Tom Brown.

THERE WAS virtue in the books—almost too much virtue. But the courage, resourcefulness and high spirits they stimulated were scarcely native growths. They seemed to be part of a British boy's book monopoly on all things admirable. They developed an attitude similar to that expressed by "cricket," which is a game, but which has become a synonym for fair play in a way no other sport denotes that characteristic.

Maybe the influence was entirely beneficial to the Canadian boy, even if it wasn't home-grown—even if sportsmanship, valour and self-reliance aren't restricted to one nationality. If your patriotism is a stream running between narrow banks, you can worry a bit about that.

But you needn't be too disturbed. Take a look at the present day counterpart of the old Chums reader. You'll find him zipping along "faster than a speeding bullet" or calling into an improvised microphone made from an empty tomato can with a handle nailed to it. He'll be saying, with dramatic intensity, "Flash calling Earth. Gordon here, calling Earth."

AND WHEN YOU'VE listened to him too long, you'll begin to think that maybe he could stand a little more immersion in cricket, with its "bumping pitch, and blinding light, an hour to play and the last man in". It's a pretty fair influence, if more Ralph Connors don't come along to relate character to the Canadian scene in terms a boy can understand.

Ask Life Ban On Car Driver

Inquest Jury Recommends License
Cancellation For Mrs. H. J. Pendray

A coroner's jury today recommended that the driver's license of a 62-year-old woman in ill health, involved in a fatal traffic accident, be canceled for the rest of her life.

The recommendation was made at an inquest in the death of Arthur I. Walden, 57, of 70 Maddock.

He died from injuries received in a Sept. 2 traffic accident on the Sooke Road involving a car driven by Mrs. Herbert J. Pendray, Lagoon Road.

The jury brought in a verdict of accidental death "due to the ill-health of Mrs. Pendray."

Most of the evidence was heard when the jury first sat last month. The inquest was adjourned at that time to hear the testimony of Mrs. Pendray, hospitalized as a result of the accident.

Earlier evidence was that the car driven by Mrs. Pendray was in a side-swipe collision with one car and then collided head-on with another driven by Walden.

BLACKED OUT
Evidence today was that Mrs. Pendray "blacked out" just before the collision occurred.

Mrs. Pendray told the jury she was en route home after receiving treatment at Resthaven Hospital for a cold and anemia, when the accident occurred.

"I was proceeding along when I became very hot. I took off my hat and then decided to park and take off my coat," she said.

LOOKED LIKE MONSTER
"Suddenly a car loomed up in front of me. It looked like a monster," Mrs. Pendray said.

That was all she remembered of the collisions. She did not remember being involved in collisions with two cars, the first one driven by Tressa J. Speed, she told the jury.

Evidence of Dr. W. H. Roberts, who attended Mrs. Pendray at the hospital, was that she had an internal condition which could have been responsible for the "blackout."

On the advice of counsel Alan Baker, Mrs. Pendray gave evidence under the Protection of the Canada Evidence Act.

Consistent Bad Driving Brings Jail

Arjan Singh, young East Indian, 607 Manchester, today was jailed 30 days for bad driving. There was no option of a fine.

"It is one of the worst records I've ever seen. He is a menace on the highways," City Prosecutor James J. Proudfoot told Magistrate H. C. Hall after he had read off the accused's record.

Singh pleaded guilty through counsel J. A. Byers to charges of driving a car while his license was under suspension and for giving a false name to secure a new license.

INSURANCE FINE
A fine of $25 was imposed against Floyd Poulton, 235 Ontario Street, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a car that was not insured.

A license restriction prohibited him from driving a car not covered by insurance.

A charge of careless driving lodged against Poulton was dismissed by Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Murder Appeal
Witness Being Flown To City

The murder appeal of John M. Davidoff reached a dramatic stage today. A witness is being flown from the Kootenay to Victoria to testify before the Court of Appeal on behalf of the accused who has been sentenced to be hanged on Dec. 11.

The witness is Leslie Lampard of Castlegar. He will be examined with regard to a sworn affidavit that he saw Davidoff in a billiard parlor at the time the accused's son was shot.

The main issue the court will have to decide is whether the evidence of Lampard would have been sufficient to change the verdict of the jury. If so the verdict may be quashed or a new trial ordered.

STIFFER CHECK ON MOTORISTS NEEDED—HART

"There are many people here, in fact all over the world, who shouldn't be allowed to drive vehicles."

That was the opinion expressed by Coroner E. C. Hart today at an inquest involving a traffic accident death.

"The time has come when the government must take action to stop people from driving who are suffering from mental or physical disabilities," the 80-year-old coroner said.

"Such people in control of cars are not safe for others on the highways."

Island's Milk May Cost More

Producers Unhappy At Rising Costs

Vancouver Island milk producers may apply to the Milk Board for another increase in prices.

The action is being discussed among some Victoria and district producers because of new increases in the price of feeds.

Latest commodity to be boosted since the August hearing is dairy mash, which jumped $3 a ton this week. Alfalfa recently increased $5 a ton and grass hay $2 a ton. Oats also have increased in price considerably.

Henry Robinson, secretary of the Vancouver Island Dairywomen's Association, declined to make an official statement on the possibility of this morning, but admitted there is talk of such action among some disgruntled producers.

STILL INADEQUATE
If an increase is applied for by producers, it will exceed the $6.72 per 100 pounds they requested at the last hearing. They were granted $5.90.

Producers contended $6.72 was an absolute minimum requirement during the hearing. Now, several producers say increased costs have made an even higher figure necessary.

"It's funny how the feed prices always increase just after we are granted an increase," said one producer.

Meanwhile, Victoria milk distributors don't think much of a group of producers' plans to distribute their own milk in an effort to cut costs.

"What makes them think they can distribute milk any cheaper than we can?" asked one. "We have years of experience and they are going into it with little knowledge."

The application of 41 producers to distribute their own milk comes before the milk board this afternoon. A hearing may be called.

"The producers' proposal will only aggravate the situation," said another distributor. "There are enough distributors now. However, it's a free country. Let them try it."

Meanwhile, the Vancouver Island Dairywomen's Association is continuing organizing for a strike. Wednesday night a strike committee was formed in the Cowichan district.

Perform This Evening
Another large audience is assured for the second performance of Scotland's Star Artists tonight at 8:30 at the Royal Theatre.

Officials of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society of Victoria, which is presenting the touring entertainers, said ticket sales have been heavy.

It was expected, however, some seats would be available at the box office at show time.

Hints At Wide Reforms In Hospital Insurance

Chairman Of Province-Wide Inquiry
Says Revision Can Make Plan Work

Radical changes in British Columbia's hospital insurance plan are expected to be recommended by the special inquiry board which has just completed province-wide public hearings.

This was indicated today by Sydney Smith, M.L.A., chairman, who is here for talks with Health and Welfare Minister A. D. Turnbull.

"I feel sure we can eradicate the objectionable features in the scheme," said Smith. "Sweeping changes will be required to make the plan more acceptable to the public."

The chairman said he could not divulge details of interim recommendations made by his board. Those, he said, would have to come from the minister.

The board, he said, will start sitting next week in Vancouver to arrive at definite decisions on its main recommendations.

(Queried at press time, Health Minister Turnbull said he preferred not to release the interim recommendations until he had discussed them with the board next week.)

"He said, however, most of the recommendations are 'close to the thinking' of the hospital insurance service officials and himself.

(One recommendation, he said, deals with delinquents.)

"I feel sure the board is going to recommend radical changes in some things," said Smith. "The public is demanding certain things and the board seems to feel it is possible to make certain changes."

Smith said the board has given considerable study to the plight of low and intermediate income groups who are finding the premiums burdensome. He didn't elaborate on this, but it appears the board is considering a graduated scale of premiums for persons in this bracket.

Smith admitted the chronic and acute case aspect of the plan is one of the major issues. Possibly, he said, the board will recommend changes here.

The board is making considerable study of out-patient care, he added.

The problem of delinquents is of major importance, Smith explained. He hinted the board will make recommendations in an effort to solve this pressing problem.

The chairman thought most of the recommendations planned could be implemented without legislation.

Smith indicated that the board feels hospital insurance staffs could be reduced.

Board members found the study of the Saskatchewan plan very informative, according to Smith.

"If there is anything in their plan we feel could be suitably adopted to B.C., it will be done," stressed Smith. "The political situation doesn't enter into this at all. The board wants to do a good job."

Arena Ice For Hockey Opening Friday Night

Hours For Public
Skating Saturday

There will be ice at the arena for hockey Friday night.

"That's for sure," said Arena Manager Joe Dukowski today with the first smile he has been seen to wear in over a week. "We will have a half-inch of ice and maybe three-quarters."

He announced public skating for Saturday from 2 to 4 and 8 to 10 for adults.

By noon today, a faint sheet of ice was beginning to form. The arena floor was sprayed with kalsomine to give the white effect. Skim milk is usually used, but it was considered too slow. The floor was flooded every hour.

Mr. Dukowski was enthusiastic over the efficient operation of the repaired and rearranged ice-making equipment. Coils were lifted up about a foot in the brine tank and better circulation resulted.

BETTER THAN BEFORE
"It's working better than when it was first put in," he said, adding this was despite the fact that the equipment is working on three coils, instead of the former four.

The night and day work of arena staff, Yarrow and city workmen was praised by Dukowski. Fred Baggs, a Yarrow foreman, Harry Ingle, chief arena engineer, and N. J. Findler, city mechanical superintendent, all assisted in the repair job.

"The plant is working most efficiently even though we can't put on all the pressure we would like," he said.

LEAKS REMAIN
Remaining coils still have small leaks.

In the meantime, workmen are proceeding with installation of an auxiliary brine tank, which Dukowski hopes will be completed in about 10 days.

"Once we get the auxiliary tank in, we'll have nothing to worry about."

Yarrow are now building new sets of coils which will be installed next spring. The brine tank will be redesigned. Design of the new coils has been changed with two sets instead of four, although the two will carry as much pipe as the four did, Dukowski said.

PIONEER CAR
America's first "gasoline buggy" was operated in Springfield, Mass., by Frank Duryea in 1893.

LABOR BOARD WON'T INTERFERE BUT WOULD HELP END STRIKE

D'Arcy Baldwin, chairman of the B.C. Labor Relations Board, reiterated today the board had no intention of interfering in the shipyard boilermakers' strike.

At the same time, he said all facilities of the board are available to the disputing parties if they wish help in settling their differences.

The strike is now 16 days old.

Spokesmen for both company and union sides reported nothing new and said there were no immediate plans for a resumption of negotiations.

1,100 Sooke Children May Miss Royal Visit

Unless authorities, parents and teachers act swiftly, more than 1,100 Sooke school children won't see the Prince and Princess.

They certainly won't get to the Royal procession Oct. 22 in a body. Transport is inadequate and too expensive.

They may get a holiday. And they will be the only school children in the lower Island area who do, in that event. But the feeling is a holiday won't be much consolation if they can't see the romantic pair who will some day rule an Empire.

Sooke School District Secretary P. G. Strachan said today, transportation of the district's 1,100 pupils to Victoria can't be handled by their four school buses, with total capacity of 180.

"We can't afford to hire special buses, either," he added.

MAY THUMB RIDES
The secretary said that some P.T.A. groups are working on plans to provide transportation, and a suggestion is that children wishing to see the procession could gather at Colwood Corner and be picked up by volunteer motorists.

If they can get to town, the Sooke children will gather at the Lamphos Street assembly area. North Saanich, too, has a transport problem.

Mrs. K. Sparks, secretary of the North Saanich School District, said police permits are being sought to allow volunteer trucks to transport children to the assembly point at Cloverdale Ave. and Quadra St.

STRICT REGULATIONS
Issue of such permits hinges on compliance with strict regulations—trucks must have a class "B" driver, be covered by insurance as well as a canopy, have a tail gate properly installed, capacity must be limited, and an adult must ride in the back with the children.

ESQUIMALT GRANNY HAPPY

Waits Hours, Sees Princess

As soon as she got off the train, the bright-eyed Esquimalt grandmother hurried to Confederation Square in Ottawa to see Princess Elizabeth. It was three and a half hours before the Princess and Prince Philip were due there.

But Mrs. Frank Elston, 828 Admirals, with her two grandchildren, Lorraine and Patricia Longstaff, was taking no chances. She had come 3,000 miles for a glimpse of the beloved daughter of the Empire.

"I wanted to be sure of getting a good view of the Princess," Mrs. Elston explained.

She sat on the curb with her grandchildren beside her, and worried: "Do you think I'll really get a good view from here?"

"I've come so far I do want to get a good close look at the Princess," she said anxiously.

"Their father," she indicated the children, "is in the navy."

Workmen were still putting up the flags and police were arranging the barriers to hold back the crowds at what turned out to be Ottawa's biggest royal function for the national war memorial ceremony.

Mrs. Elston and the children sat eager-eyed and a little anxious: women of a naval family come to see their future queen.

M'mm! That Cake Looks Good Enough To Eat!

By PENNY SAVER

By this time, I expect you have tried so many different cake mixes that a new one will have to be something really "special" to interest you.

However, here is that something extra you may have been looking for in a cake mix. It comes in chocolate, white and gingerbread—I know you'll enjoy trying them.

After months of baking and research tests, these fellows have achieved that "something special" in a cake mix. But—you be the judge! Junior and all the rest of the family will smack their lips with approval.

The new white and chocolate cake mixes require addition of one fresh egg. This was decided on after considerable research—as the addition of a fresh egg seems to give more of that "home-baked" taste than seems possible with powdered eggs.

Actually, leaving the latter out of the mix enables the manufacturer to market it at a lower price—so the price of the baked cake will be about the same to the housewife, that is, if the price of eggs doesn't attach itself to a rocket.

You know that the "life" of a cake mix is limited. And if a cake mix has been left up at the summer camp or on the grocer's shelves for some time—the cake you bake just doesn't taste the same.

You're in for a treat. The fresh-egg cake mix has a longer life. Another advantage!

But you'll be gettin' all spruced up in your Sunlay best when "Liz" and "Phil" visit us in a couple of weeks.

But you dollars to get nuts that when Pa goes to get his studs for that extra-special shirt he won't be able to find them anywhere that is without a heck of a lot of trouble.

Just so he won't have to go through this any time he gets all dressed up, I took a look at stud cases.

In leather, I found they start at $2.

The one he'll like best though was imprinted with "A stud in hand is worth two under the bed." How true!

Delegates Appointed

Mrs. T. Taylor and Mrs. Blair Reid were appointed delegates from the Senior Ladies' Auxiliary to St. Joseph's Hospital to the B.C. Hospital Auxiliary conference in Vancouver, Oct. 16 to 19. Further plans for the bazaar in November were discussed and Mrs. F. Krieger reported 450 sponges made.

TO JOIN DELEGATION

MONTREAL (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson has announced that Mrs. R. J. Marshall, of Agincourt, Ont., retiring president of the National Council of Women of Canada, has been appointed a member of the Canadian delegation to the United Nations General Assembly, which meets in Paris this Autumn.

Guest Soloist — Mrs. M. E. Ratcliffe, accompanied by Mrs. J. T. Wilmhurst, sang "Elizabeth of England," at a recent meeting of Aged Pensioners' Branch, No. 3. A reception was held for those with birthdays this month and also for new members. Program was under direction of Mrs. J. B. Hudson.

Well-Known Couple Married

A wedding of interest to many Victorians took place recently in Metropolitan United Church when Mary Lorraine Arnet became the bride of Glenn Launce Murdoch. Dr. A. E. Whitehouse officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Trygve Arnet, Vincent Avenue, and the groom is the son of Mrs. A. C. Murdoch, Ascot Apartments, and the late Mr. Murdoch. (Photo by Jonas.)

TODAY'S RECIPE

CARAMEL APPLE CAKE

6 tablespoons butter,
¾ cup brown sugar,
3 apples,
¼ teaspoon cinnamon,
1 cup sifted cake flour,
1½ teaspoons baking powder,
¼ teaspoon salt,
¼ teaspoon mace,
3 eggs.

1 cup granulated sugar,
2 teaspoons lemon juice,
6 tablespoons hot milk.

Melt butter in 9-inch cake pan. Spread brown sugar evenly over bottom of pan. Core, peel and slice apples. Arrange slices in single layer on sugar mixture, without overlapping. Sprinkle with cinnamon.

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and mace. Drop eggs in deep mixing bowl, beat with rotary beater until very thick and light, about 5 minutes. Add sugar gradually, beating constantly with rotary beater. Add lemon juice.

Fold in flour mixture, a small amount at a time. Add hot milk, stir quickly and thoroughly until well blended. Turn batter onto apples in pan. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for 40 to 45 minutes.

Remove from oven and immediately loosen cake from sides of pan with spatula. Turn out upside down on serving plate with fruit on top. Cut in squares and serve warm with whipped cream.

Royal Visit — At the recent meeting of Brentwood Scouts Group Committee, Freeman King, district commissioner, gave full details on the duties of the scouts and cubs for the Royal visit. Mrs. J. Smethurst presided and plans were discussed for country fair.

Decoration — At the recent meeting of St. George's Altar Guild, Ganges, it was reported that the church will be decorated for the harvest festival. Also arrangements are being made for cleaning the windows, illumination of a good light over pulpit, material for a new altar cloth, and book racks for choir pews. Mrs. V. C. Best presided and Mrs. G. H. Holmes served tea.

Prepared for you
from the WORLD'S CHOICEST COFFEE BEANS

Choicest coffee beans from the world's finest plantations are selected for preparing Nescafé. First the coffee beans are freshly roasted. Then the coffee is brewed and the soluble coffee solids, the part that contains the aroma and flavor, are extracted and carbohydrates are added solely to seal in all the coffee goodness.

All you do is just measure one teaspoonful right into the cup—pour on boiling water—and stir. One taste and you'll know why more people drink Nescafé... for pure coffee enjoyment. No fuss or bother—no wait. More economical, too, than ordinary coffee making. You save up to 40¢ a pound when you enjoy Nescafé.

NESCAFE

*Nescafé (pronounced NES-CAFAY) is the exclusive registered trade mark of Nestlé's Milk Products (Canada) Limited to designate its soluble coffee product which is composed of equal parts of pure soluble coffee and added pure carbohydrates (dextrin, maltose and dextrose) added solely to protect the flavor.

Named To High International Office

Mrs. P. B. Scurrah, Victoria, was yesterday elected president of Supreme Chapter, P.E.O. Sisterhood, at international convention in Philadelphia.

A Victoria woman has become the first Canadian to attain high office of international president of the P.E.O. Sisterhood.

Yesterday, at Town Hall, Philadelphia, in a gathering of 2,000 women, Mrs. P. B. Scurrah was elected to head Supreme Chapter, P.E.O. Sisterhood for the next two years. Next international convention will be held in Vancouver in 1953.

The new international president started her climb to high office in 1929 when she became president of Chapter E, P.E.O. Sisterhood, in this city. Following her term of office she was president of the Presidents' Council and also president of Provincial Chapter of the Sisterhood.

In 1941 the international convention was held in Victoria, the first time the gathering had ever been held outside the United States.

Mrs. Scurrah was elected corresponding secretary at this convention and has since risen through the offices of recording secretary, organizer and vice-president to her new office of president.

First as organizer and then as vice-president, this outstanding Victoria woman, represented the Sisterhood at state conventions in practically every state in the union and wherever she has traveled she has been an unofficial ambassador for Canada. In the 44 years since its secondary education loan fund has been established, the P.E.O. Sisterhood has helped through this revolving fund more than 10,000 young Canadian and United States women to obtain higher education.

Cotley College for junior girls at Nevada, Miss., is also a project of the P.E.O. Sisterhood.

On Honeymoon In The States

Mr. and Mrs. James Bernard Salmon, who were married recently in Centennial United Church by Rev. W. R. Ashford, are honeymooning in Washington and Oregon.

Baskets of gladioli and chrysanthemums formed the background for the evening ceremony uniting the former Lois May, younger daughter of Mrs. Edith C. Magrath, 3478 Lovatt Ave., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Salmon, North Quadra St. Given in marriage by her cousin, Dr. J. E. Magrath, the bride was radiant in filmy white net over satin with insets of lace, the strapless bodice and full skirt en train worn with a matching jacket with pointed collar, buttons down the front, and long sleeves. A beaded coronet held her finger-tip veil of illusion net, and she carried pink roses and gardenias in a horse-shoe bouquet. The bride's two attendants were Miss Patricia Salmon, sister of the groom, who chose soft apple green taffeta with net overskirt, and Miss Roberta Whittaker, cousin of the bride, wearing pale blue net over taffeta. Both wore matching mitts and bandeaux of satin ribbon with fresh flowers to the top, corresponding with the bride's chrysanthemums and gladioli centered with rosebuds and carnations in their Colonial bouquets.

The bridegroom had his two brothers, Mr. Kenneth Salmon as best man, and Mr. Martin Salmon usher, with Mr. Bernard Atkins.

The reception was held at the bride's home where her mother and the mother of the groom assisted in receiving the guests. Asters in pastel colors with lighted candles decorated the lace-covered table which was centred with the three-tiered cake. Mr. Ashford proposed the toast.

For traveling the bride wore a grey flannel suit with navy and white check topcoat, navy accessories and gardenia corsage.

They will live in Victoria.

Newlyweds To Live In Manitoba

Autumn Setting For Bazaar Of Daughters Of St. George

Warm tones of autumn flowers and gaily-decorated stalls created an attractive scene for the bazaar, yesterday afternoon of Victoria Lodge No. 83, Daughters of St. George, in Naval Veterans' Hall, Broad Street.

The affair was officially opened by Mrs. J. L. Gates, and receiving guests were Mrs. M. Brown, president; Mrs. A. Hooper and Mrs. L. G. Murphy.

Presiding at the lace-covered tea table which was centred with an arrangement of multi-colored chrysanthemums were Mrs. Gates, Mrs. John Hart, Mrs. M. Bentham and Miss Ellen Hart.

Mrs. R. Turner, tea convener, was assisted by Mesdames G. Lomas, M. Haynes and M. McLean.

In charge of stalls were Mesdames A. Sparkes and P. Brien, aprons; Mesdames R. Williams and A. Harris, home cooking; Mesdames S. W. Kendall and E. Varney, candy; Mesdames A. Holmes and F. Chappell, contests; Mrs. A. Gurney, lamb dinner contest; Mesdames A. H. Vivian and M. V. Cleaner, nov-

Bridge-Canasta Tea Realizes $175

An interesting event on the fall social calendar was the St. Joseph's Alumnae fall bridge and canasta tea yesterday afternoon in the Nurses' Home, which realized $175.

Mrs. Ivan Moore, president, welcomed the guests and convers of the bridge were Mesdames G. Rose, C. Lewis and A. Cyril. Tea was served under the convener'ship of Mrs. A. Deeks and graduates of the school assisted in serving.

An attractive tea table in the lounge was covered with an ecru lace cloth and centred with a low bowl of pastel chrysanthemums and lighted candles. Presiding were Dr. Pauline Zdanowicz, Mrs. E. J. W. Nash, Mrs. A. N. Reid and Mrs. J. W. E. Hunt. Mrs. R. Kersey was in charge of decorations.

A home cooking stall was operated by Mrs. J. Reid and Miss H. MacMillan.

To Protest Pensions

At a meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion at Ganges, it was decided that letters and telegrams be sent to the Minister of Veterans' Affairs, Ottawa, demanding an overall increase in pensions, the opening day of parliament.

Miss E. L. Turner was welcomed as a new member and it was announced that Mrs. C. Springford will convene the sale of poppies this year. Mrs. Springford also reported on Zone Council meeting in Duncan.

Mrs. V. Harroway gave a talk on welfare work and Youth Hostel organizations in Britain.

Home-Made Games Best For Children

LONDON, Ont. (CP).—Don't throw away your old hats, worn-out handbags and odd scraps of material, says Britain's health ministry. Give them to the children for a "dressing-up box."

The ministry offered this advice in a handbook on how to keep children happy at play.

Dressing up, the handbook says, helps to satisfy the child's desire to be grown up and stimulates conversation with other children.

A "junk box" is another good idea. Filled with old screw-top jars, empty thread-reels and other odds and ends, it will teach the child "to use reason and imagination in adapting things for the particular purpose it has in mind."

The handbook warns that too many fairy tales can frighten a sensitive child. "Real-life stories, preferably about people of the listener's own age, are much better."

Saturday Bride-Elect Feted

Miss Sheila Roissetter, whose marriage to Mr. Murray Clyde Macdonald will take place this Saturday, was honored guest recently at a miscellaneous shower given by her aunt, Mrs. H. Dolman at her University Avenue home.

The bride-elect was presented with a gardenia, while her mother, Mrs. E. F. Roissetter and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. W. C. Macdonald, received corsages of gladioli.

A decorated basket topped with a miniature bride held the gifts. Pink and white carnations centred the table for the buffet supper.

Among those present were Mesdames G. Murphy, C. Effler, J. Gordon, M. Potts, J. Elder, G. Lewis, T. Lewis, L. Wright, A. Cook, Misses Pamela Roissetter, Betty Dolman, Pat Murphy and Diane Coles.

For Joan Lohbrunner

A bride-elect of this month, Miss Joan Lohbrunner, was honored at a shower recently by Mrs. Jack Carter, in her Quebec Street home.

Corsages were presented to the guest of honor, her mother, Mrs. E. H. Lohbrunner, her grandmother, Mrs. E. F. Reid, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. H. W. Gurney.

Invited guests were Mesdames W. H. Burney, L. Lohbrunner, M. Lohbrunner, C. Richards, F. Cottell Sr., W. L. Herkes, W. Beveridge, V. Ahler, H. Preece, K. Christiansen, J. Kennedy, W. Steen, J. A Special KIND OF SOFTNESS

"It made sense to me!"

"I heard a dietitian explaining why non-yeast baking turns out so much better when a special cake and pastry flour is used. It's because this flour is milled from the softer kinds of wheat and is sifted to special fineness. That means more tender baking... a much more delicate texture with less shortening needed too. So I changed to Monarch Cake and Pastry Flour. You'd hardly believe the difference it makes. My pastry is really flaky and as for cakes... well... I'm baking them the modern way with Monarch Cake and Pastry Flour from now on."

Actress Calls For Return Of Sex Appeal For Women

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Beautiful Rhonda Fleming today pleaded for a return of sex appeal to the women in movies.

"The men have had it long enough," she remarked. She referred to the trend in recent years of displaying male stars in scanty attire while the actresses have become more and more clothed.

"It happens to be in nearly every picture," she said semi-seriously. "I've been opposite such men as Sterling Hayden, John Payne and Glenn Ford.
While they go around with bare chests, I am wearing dresses that extend from my neck to my feet."

CHASTE CHESTS
"The rules about showing cleavage are very strict. The result is that most gowns have to be extended almost up to the neck. The only girls who can wear low-cut gowns in the movies are those who are flat-chested and wear pads."

In her current picture, "Golden Hawk," Miss Fleming is dressed as a boy in one sequence. With Miss Fleming's figure, this operation requires no small amount of technical skill.

SHORN LOCKS
The actress admitted that the women lost some of their sex appeal by their own doing—as witness short haircuts.

"I believe all men think long hair makes women more attractive. I'm certainly going to keep mine that way."

To prove her point, Miss Fleming cited one of her recent pictures—an exception in which she played a hoochie-cooch dancer and displayed as much epidermis as the censors will allow.

Even though the critics howled at the picture, Miss Fleming reported: "I got more fan mail about it than from any other picture I have ever made."

AUDIENCE IMPRESSED

Eddy's Even Greater Than Films Revealed

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

Two strong impressions were left with us after last night's Nelson Eddy concert at the Royal Theatre. One, that Eddy has become a far greater interpretive artist than screen or radio have revealed; and two, that the cheering enthusiasm of the capacity audience recognized that fact.

Relaxed from the moment he stepped on the stage, the tall, blonde singer talked program notes to his audience as though they were on the other side of a neighborly fence.

A keen sense of humor
bubbled through his introductions and in much of the singing; particularly of numbers like the unexpected Beethoven version of the famous "Song of a Flea" or the Richard Strauss number about "Fifteen Pennies."

CHARACTERIZES SONGS

He characterizes his songs, giving them brilliant point with the movement of a shoulder, a quick shift of facial expression, a flash of eyeballs. And it is all done with the economy and restraint that is ideal on the concert platform.

The whole delightful performance demonstrated the necessity for dramatic training for concert singers. For herein, and in the free projection of personality, lies the greater part of Eddy's ability to make his singing a vivid experience for the listener.

REAL ARTISTRY

To be candid, the voice in itself, leaves something to be desired. There are areas in it which lack the round resonance usually associated with the baritone range. Nevertheless, it is still a pleasing instrument, frequently a fine one. But it is the artist behind the voice for whom unstinted praise must be reserved.

The program included one aria from Donizetti's "L'Elisir d'Amore," and German, French and English groups. Numerous encores were demanded and given, including several songs from "Rose Marie."

Theodore Paxson, pianist, arranged several of the numbers, partnered Mr. Eddy brilliantly and supplied a group of piano solos that revealed his extensive musicianship.

NOTE: We suspend our usual program of motion pictures today, owing to stage attraction.

George Stevens' "A PLACE IN THE SUN ROYAL"

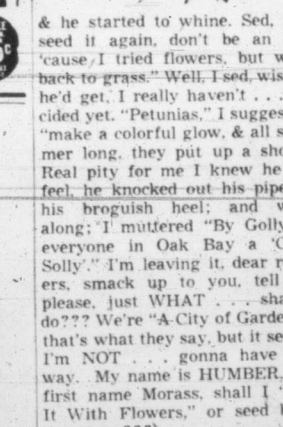

HELP... HELP...?

yard, s'matter of fact... on the boulevard. I hate it out there,
"tho I love the dirt, 'cause 'shk", makes me wear a crisp clean shirt. And I gotta wear gloves, & almost full-dress, "your HANDS" she says, "get such a mess." But it doesn't take long, as I dig about, my gloves are off, & my shirt-tails out. My britches are slipping, madly I plough. I use my shirt to blotter my brow.
Now—WHY I'm so humorous, I'll never know, but passing motorists often crow, like that smelly stogie in the black sedan, hollering "Every One Works But Our Old Man." An endless stream goes passing by, & many a driver lets out a cry, "Hi-Ya Digger, looking for water." I wave back, "tho inwardly hotter. What's the matter, I mumble, kick a twig, just WHAT'S so funny, if I wanna dig??? Another slicks by, pokes out his dome, "guess you'll put THAT dirt in your very next pome?" He guffs a guffaw, pulls his bean back, & low-throats away in his green Pontiac. AH-SHET-UP!" I wanna say, but I just smile, horse along with the play.

Then along comes a chap, out for a walk, "whatcha gonna plant?"
he opens the talk, I lean on the shovel, "she" peeks behind sills,
"I was thinking," I sed, "of darfo-dils." "Unh... Unh," he replied, went into a frown, "kids on scooters would knock 'em all down."
"Hummmmm." & I thot, well
I've got some slips, or maybe I'll settle on a flock of tulips. "Unh Unh," he repeated, then I learned about holly, "dogs won't tiff it," sed "Ceaseless Solly." He finally left, & I was a-seether, he sed "I must get going, I'm out for a breather." YOU should get going, WE are known as great savers, Chesterfields we have in 6 fine ravers. What say eh, get off the dime, we've cocoa, green, rose, mushroom & lime. Another car went by, he shouted "Hi Ya Pa."
I tucked in my shirt, teed back a "Ha Ha." More dirt I dug, more stones did I toss, & beside me I had, a bale of peat-moss. Which I sprinkled in, as I stretched my spine, then along came "tweeds,"

& he started to whine. Sed, "I'd seed it again, don't be an ass,
'cause I tried flowers, but went back to grass." Well, I sed, wishin' he'd get, I really haven't... decided yet. "Petunias," I suggested,
"make a colorful glow, & all summer long, they put up a show." Real pity for me I knew he did feel, he knocked out his pipe on his broguish heel, & went along; I muttered "By Golly, is everyone in Oak Bay a 'Cecil Solly'." I'm leaving it, dear readers, smack up to you, tell me please, just WHAT... shall I do??? We're "A City of Gardens," that's what they say, but it seems
I'm NOT... gonna have MY way.
My name is HUMBER, my first name Morass, shall I "Save It With Flowers," or seed back the grass???

A dark, vertical, rectangular object, possibly a book spine or a piece of wood, standing upright. The object is dark in color, possibly black or dark brown, and has a slightly textured surface. It is positioned vertically, with its top and bottom edges visible. The background is a light, neutral color, providing a stark contrast to the dark object. The lighting is even, highlighting the object's form without creating strong shadows.

'PERSIANS LAUGHING AT US'

Briton Feels 'Humiliated'

By KENNETH ROSS
General Manager of the Abadan Refinery

(Oil company official tells the full humiliating story of the evacuation from Iran of how the British government lost touch with the situation. A story of drift and delay, and lack of action.)

LONDON—I came back to London today, after 19 years working for British interests in Persia with a story of defeat and humiliation. I feel so strongly about the whole tragedy that I must speak out now and tell the facts as I know them. When we discovered in Rome on the way that it had been suggested we had asked to be evacuated we were flabbergasted. There is no other word for it.

It is not my business to reply to Mr. Attlee or Mr. Morrison, but I feel the Persians should have been handled firmly. If force was necessary, we should have used force. But I do not think force was necessary.

Government Completely Lost Touch

I speak for myself and not on behalf of the company, but I feel that one of the difficulties of negotiations has been that the British government completely lost touch with the Persian government after failure of the Stokes mission and I feel contact should have been maintained at all costs. After the Persian reputation by the Hague Court we should have immediately appealed to the Security Council and not have waited until the staff had been served with expulsion notices. We feel that the British government waited to see what might turn up—whether Dr. Mossadegh's government would fall or whether his illness might force him to retire. But Britain never took the initiative.

I blame the government for procrastination, for Micawber-like attitude of waiting for something to turn up. There was no determination and no action. Would military intervention have been effective early in the dispute?

I feel we have always supported the United Nations in the ideal of settling disputes without force and by negotiation and I feel that once we had gone to the Hague Court we should have followed this dispute up with further action in the Security Council.

British Prestige Suffered Blow

At no time during these discussions has the British government shown any definite policy. As a result the Persians are laughing at us. British prestige has quite definitely suffered a heavy blow by the evacuation and only straightforward and firm negotiations could now restore this prestige.

The Mossadegh government is extremely apprehensive of Mr. Churchill coming to power, as they feel he will be firmer than the present government. My advice now is that Britain should continue with the Security Council and also make every effort to negotiate with the Persian government to find some common ground on which a new settlement could be built.

Here now are my answers to the questions the world is asking about Abadan:

WHAT HAS BRITAIN LOST?
—Twenty-five to thirty million tons of oil a year. She has lost

WOULD MY COLLEAGUES AND I WORK FOR PERSIANS?
—I was repeatedly asked by a "temporary board of directors" whether I would accept a position under them. I was told I would retain the same legal rights as I possessed in my present position and there would be no difference. Also my salary and pension rights would be guaranteed by payments into a neutral bank. But I told them that I had seen so much of the mismanagement by the Persian board, that I could not possibly think of working under any directorate which did not contain some British guarantee such as would be given by a connection with the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Helicopters Marines In Epic Action

8TH ARMY HEADQUARTERS.

KOREA—Helicopters flew an entire battalion of U.S. marines into battle, on the eastern front today and a powerful tank force simultaneously struck deep into Red positions to the west.

The helicopter airlift—the largest in military history—was completed in six hours and 15 minutes within mortar range of Communist defenses. However, the Reds made no attempt to interfere.

The 160-flight "Operation Bumblebee" was designed to reinforce the marine lines in the eastern mountains for a renewed attempt to break north Korean resistance on the approaches to the east coast port of Wonsan.

The marines first used Helicopters to move men to the front three weeks ago, but only about 260 men were shuttled north on that occasion.

Part of the tank-infantry task force cut west up the Naedang Valley to support other second division troops on "Kim Il Sung Ridge." The Yanks on this ridge were more successful, taking a key hill from fresh Chinese troops.

Another armored spearhead rolled up the Satae Valley east of "Heartbreak Ridge" and blasted enemy bunkers from that side.

Meanwhile at Munsan, United Nations' and Communist liaison officers met twice today and the Reds reported they made headway toward reopening truce talks.

The British government said they could not deal with Mossadegh. Well, his is the strongest Persian government there has ever been. We must deal with them whether we like it or not. I have been asked if Mr. Stokes handled Persians as I would have handled them.

Here is the answer.

Persians criticized Mr. Stokes for being far too rigid in his demands for a British general management. I don't know what previous experience Mr. Stokes has had of negotiating with middle eastern people, but although he claimed to know and like Persia well, I felt his approach may have been too forthright and inflexible. Negotiations should have been kept open at all costs. Mr. Stokes, I believe, underestimated Dr. Mossadegh's popularity with the masses.

They scheduled another session for 10 a.m. Friday (8 p.m. EST Thursday).

Baby Survives Plane Crash

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—

An Eskimo baby, cuddled on his mother's back, was reported today to have survived a plane crash that killed the mother and the pilot near the northernmost tip of Alaska.

Wien - Alaska Airlines, the owner of the plane, said the known victims were pilot George Harrington from Marblehead, Mass., and the mother, Mrs. Ruth Simmons.

The baby, Ronald, six months old, was reported suffering from internal injuries.

Ottawa Loads Gifts On Pair

Elizabeth Receives $1,000 Cheque For Charities At Civic Luncheon

OTTAWA (CP)—The city of Ottawa paid court to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip today with a civic luncheon and sent the royal couple away laden with gifts for their children.

To the princess herself, Mayor Charlotte Whitton presented a cheque for $1,000 in Canadian funds, contained in a hand-worked leather wallet, to be used by the princess for the charities she personally favors.

The luncheon, starting at 12:30 p.m. E.S.T., was held in the ballroom of the Chateau Laurier Hotel. The guest list of 200 included high-ranking civic officials.

The Royal couple, going to the luncheon after a quiet morning at Government House, were accompanied by Prime Minister and Mrs. St. Laurent.

The Princess' costume for the luncheon was a red crepe dress with a soft draped bodice and full skirt with small waistline. She also wore a long red wool coat trimmed at the collar and sleeves with black velvet buttons.

For the children, Mayor Whitton presented a truly Canadian treat—maple sugar in a box fashioned of Ottawa Valley bird's-eye maple and bearing the city's coat-of-arms. The children, the mayor suggested, will expect something to be brought home "from the party."

But that was not all for the youngsters. Eleven-year-old Eric Goodwin, son of former Mayor Grenville Goodwin who died suddenly a month ago, presented for three-year-old Prince Charles a windbreaker with the first new crest award of the city.

For one-year-old Princess Anne, there were two bunny blankets spun from the finest Canadian wool with the Royal infant's Royal coronet. They were presented by Nicole Tardif, 11, daughter of city comptroller Paul Tardif.

Today there were lavish arrangements for security as 40 to 50 power boats—50 to 75 foot, luxurious motor cruisers—got their instructions of just where they should cruise in relation to the royal barge.

FINNEGAN INDICTED

ST. LOUIS (AP)—James P. Finnegan, former internal revenue collector here and a prominent figure in a congressional investigation into reported corruption in the nation's tax collection service, was indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of bribery.

In the face of all this spectacle and turmoil, Elizabeth conducts herself with a regal bearing, with dignity and a pleasant, unassuming charm. When she smiles, she has a beautiful smile but some people think she doesn't smile enough at the crowds and there are reports that this information has been passed along to her by her staff.

RETAINS DIGNITY

Hockey Pilot, Coach Barred For All Time

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association Wednesday night suspended the manager and the coach of a Kingston hockey club for life on charges that the team threw a playoff series to Peterborough last spring. It suspended two players for two years and 12 for one year.

The suspensions, imposed by the association's sub-committee after a hearing, are:

Life: Manager D. L. McKnight, manager of the Kingston Nylons Hockey Club; Coach George Paterson.

Two years: Players Rawlind Aitken and Edward Plumb.

One year: Jack Stone, Ken Murphy, Walter Gerow, Ken Partis, Jack McKeown, Freddy Harrison, Joe Watts, Glynn Udall, Robert Joyce, Kenny Potts, Douglas Patterson and Jack Armstrong.

Only two players, Joey Catlin and Bob Landry, who did not attend the meeting when arrangements to throw the series were made, were exonerated by the sub-committee.

A Garden spokesman said further details of the transaction, which has been hanging fire for several months, will be announced later Thursday after a meeting of the Bruins' board of directors.

Brewery Paralyzed

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A dispute over what both company and labor officials term a trivial matter has paralyzed one of the world's largest breweries. Approximately 2,300 employees of the Anheuser-Busch Inc. plant are out of work today while 3,700 more face a possible layoff, all because of a dispute over whether a handful of men should work in the basement or on the fourth floor.

VICTORIA'S 'QUEEN' TO MEET PRINCESS

Brown-Eyed Elizabeth Waits, Thrilled To Curtsey To Her Royal Namesake

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

A brown-eyed Elizabeth will meet a blue-eyed Elizabeth when a princess comes to call at City Hall Oct. 22. And brown eyes is thrilled as only a 17-year-old can be, honored in such fashion.

Pretty Elizabeth "Betty" Dolman, Victoria's May 24th Queen, will be the first citizen presented by Mayor Percy George to the Princess and Duke of Edinburgh in City Council Chamber ceremony.

As she was first selected a "queen" candidate by her schoolmates at Mount View High Schools, Betty will represent the youth of Greater Victoria at the presentation, according to Frank Hunter, city clerk, in charge of ceremony arrangements.

"It will be a wonderful experience but I suppose I shall be nervous," said the slim and friendly girl who came to Canada to live from London, England, two years ago.

Betty, who works at the federal government's Old Age Security offices on Broughton Street has only seen the princess from afar up to now.

"I saw her with the entire royal family on the balcony of Buckingham Palace the day war ended."

Betty does not know yet what she is to wear for the occasion, but along with others who will be presented, has seen a movie of the 1939 ceremony when the King and Queen called at City Hall.

Iraq Also Asking Pact Revision Adding Worry

From AP and Reuters Dispatches

As a new threat to her prestige in the Middle East arose today Britain declared firmly she would quit neither the Sudan nor the Suez Canal—the two main points sought by Egypt in the current treaty dispute.

Meanwhile at Bagdad it was officially announced Iraq has approached the British government for a revision of existing treaty relationships.

Iraq thus became the third Middle East state to become embroiled in a dispute with Britain.

In London official statements by the Foreign Office said:

1. Britain will take all steps necessary to maintain her troops in the canal zone.

2. Britain will agree to no change in the status of the Sudan without consulting the Sudanese, maintaining the people's right to decide their own future.

Pact Covers Both Issues

Both these points are covered by the 1936 treaty which Egypt is moving to tear up.

The Foreign Office statement said the government will continue to give full support to the present administration of the Sudan, headed by Governor-General Sir Robert Howe, and to its policy of bringing independence to the territory.

In Cairo shouting Egyptians, demanding the ouster of British troops from Egypt, today demonstrated against Britain for the second successive day. But this time there was no violence.

Heavy police escorts kept order as thousands paraded through Mustafa Kamel Square, then moved on to the larger Ibrahim Pasha Square to hear speakers shout:

"Down with Britain. We want the British to get out of our country."

Leading the crowd, Sudanese students at two Cairo universities cried "Down with foreign domination—we want one king, one crown, one Nile."

After streaming past the palace and cheering King Farouk, the crowds dispersed without incident.

Cairo newspapers said the government is studying the possibility of negotiating non-aggression pacts with Russia, the U.S. and France.

The newspaper Al Misri said a royal decree is expected soon to oust the British Governor-General, of the Sudan. Under the 1899 agreement the Egyptians name the Governor-General, but Britain must assent to the Egyptians choice. The Governor-General Chairman Charles A. Buckley (Dem., N.Y.) said no meeting on legislation to authorize the multi-million-dollar project will be called until after Jan. 1.

Buckley and Representative McGregor (R., Ohio), a member of the committee and opponent of the Seaway bill, clashed Wednesday on probable future dates for committee action.

When an early meeting of the House of Representatives forced a halt to a hearing on the legislation, McGregor insisted that the committee vote Friday on whether to approve the proposal.

Buckley said a Friday meeting was impossible because some committee members had out-of-town speaking engagements for Friday—Columbus Day.

Then, Buckley abruptly ended the discussion with the assertion that the committee would meet again subject to his call.
